Carey named chief of Stroud police

By GARY BARANIK
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — Charles Martin resigned as Stroud Township's Police Chief effective today with Sgt. James Carey named as his replacement. Ptl. C. Robert Cooke was promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Carey, 35, has been with the police department for the last four and a half years. Prior to joining the force, he was police chief in Mount Pocono. He is a native of New York City and is married with three children. The family resides in Mount Pocono.

Carey was the chief investigator in the recent case involving murder charges brought against Linda Joyce Dixon, 22, who is charged with killing her two-year-old son, Christopher.

Stroud supervisor James Somers, Jr., who also acts as police commissioner, said Sunday Carey was appointed by the supervisors because of his previous experience in the department stating "he was next in line for the job."

Somers said Carey indicated he would move into the township if he could find suitable housing.

Speaking on Carey, Martin said "I don't think they could have picked a better man for the job." Martin called the Stroud Township police department "the top police force in the county and I feel it will continue to stay that way."

Somers said the Stroud supervisors met informally last week to discuss Martin's resignation and a possible successor.

Martin said Sunday he is leaving to work for an area construction firm. He said, "I am taking that one step beyond. It's a step to better myself and move up the ladder."

The Monroe County native has been police chief since January, 1969. He replaced Hubert Tebbis, who retired.

Martin was a member of Stroud's police department since 1966 when it only comprised two fulltime men.

He is married to the former Loretta Altemose of Stroudsburg and has four children.

"The police have had a good working relationship with the supervisors and I expect it will stay that way," he said.

Jury convicts mass murderer

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) —Herbert W. Mullin, 26, was found guilty Sunday of slaying 10 persons in a three-week murder spree early this year.

When asked about his toughest case, Martin brought up the Dixon murder case which was handled by the new chief.

The former chief doesn't believe a county police force is the answer to the county's police problem, but declined to comment on his reasons.

Somers called Martin "a man who has done more than a capable job in his position as police chief."

Cooke has been with the department for the past three and a half years on a fulltime basis.

Prior to being hired on a permanent basis, he spent six years in the Monroe County Police Reserves and worked part-time as a police officer in Stroud Township since the early 1960s.

Cooke and his wife Beatrice, have one son and live in Stroud Township. He is a New Jersey native but has lived in Monroe County since 1939.

The jury of six men and six women found Mullin guilty of two counts of first degree murder and eight counts of second degree murder.

The high school honor student who dropped out to turn on to LSD took the verdict calmly. He will be sentenced Sept. 18, and faces life imprisonment with no parole on the murder convictions.

The verdict came on the third day of deliberations in the case during which Mullin testified that he murdered 13 persons. He was not charged with three of the killings, one of them the stonping and stabbing of a Roman Catholic priest in his confessional.

Mullin, who said he killed to offer up "human sacrifices" to prevent earthquakes, pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

California law provides for an automatic appeal against murder convictions, a process that usually takes several months.

Defense attorney James Jackson said the verdict is "as insane as Mullin is." He said he could not work out how the jury had arrived at its findings.

Air Force planes and National Guard troops joined more than 6,300 firefighters flown in from around the nation to fight the worst forest fires in memory that raged out of control Sunday in eight Western states and Canada.

At least 110,000 acres of timber and farm land has so far gone up in flames, and authorities estimated damage at well over $60 million.

John Hafterson, head of the inter-agency fire center, said that 80 per cent of the federal firefighting force had been thrown into the battle against the fires. The remaining 20 per cent were on standby to be flown in.

"Most fire managers in the Northwest feel this the worst season ever," Hafterson said. "It is the worst season and the worst potential fire season I have ever been acquainted with."

Dozens of commercial airliners and Air Force C130 Hercules transport planes shuttled firefighters in from almost every state, including Alaska, in an effort to stop the spread of flames in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah.

One fire in Montana leaped the border into Canada and had burned through 4,000 acres of forest land there, still out of control.

"Veteran fire fighters say these are the worst they've ever seen and that includes the big ones in 1967 and 1970," said Dick Klade, information officer at the national interagency fire center in Boise, Idaho.

"The fire danger in the affected areas is rated as extreme to very high."

Thirty-four major fires in the Western states had burned through 110,000 acres since the first outbreak last Wednesday.

Klade said that 13 of the fires which accounted for 82,000 acres were still out of control.

"We know there have been hundreds of others, but they were controlled by local firefighting organizations."

National Guard troops reinforced firefighters on lines around Klamath Falls and the mountain city of La Grande in Oregon, to stop flames near the outskirts of the communities.

An estimated 16,000 acres of timberland was charred in Oregon, and firefighters said the blaze near La Grande was still several days away from being brought under control.

A $500,000-a-day effort was being made to douse flames in Montana and Idaho.

Helicopters with huge buckets slung under them scooped 250-gallon loads of water from rivers to pour on the fires.

One of the worst fires raged through 12,000 acres of forest near Yosemite National Park in California, destroying timber that a U.S. Forest Service spokesman said was valued at $50 million.

Bloodless coup topples Phnuma

Ex-general takes over Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Forces under the command of the former air force commander took control of the Laotian government of Premier Souvanna Phouma today in a pre-dawn bloodless coup and established martial law, the leader of the rebel forces reported.

"We have them under our control," said Brig. Gen. Thao Ma, who led units which were believed to have crossed the Mekong River from Thailand less than half a mile from downtown Vientiane.

U.S. sources in Vientiane, contacted by phone from Saigon, confirmed a coup attempt against the Laos government was in progress but said Premier Souvanna Phouma "is safe."

The sources said, "There was a coup attempt that is still underway. The situation is fluid at the present time."

One source said "there has been some (fighter plane) bombing" but he was unable to say where it took place. Sources also reported "some fighting is going on on the way to the airport" on the outskirts of Vientiane.

However, the sources said no fighting had been reported inside the Laotian capital.

Ma's forces surrounded the residence of the 74-year-old Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma, who had summoned his cabinet to an emergency meeting as the coup got underway.

Sources close to the former air force chief, who had been in exile in Thailand since an unsuccessful coup attempt in the mid-1960s, said Ma and his followers carried out the coup because they felt the government was giving too many concessions to the pro-communist Pathet Lao in current peace talks toward a new coalition government in Laos.

The coup leaders were said to be staunch supporters of former Laotian strongman Gen.

Phoumi Nosavan, who now lives in exile in Bangkok.

They seized control of both the civilian and military sections of the Vientiane airport and took over control of the official radio before dawn. Gen. Ma, wearing a blue and white scarf, flew over the city in an American-made propeller-driven T28 aircraft as the coup was in progress.

The leaders of the coup said in a series of communiques broadcast over the radio during the morning they had formed a "Peoples and Armed Forces Revolutionary Committee" and said the situation was "securely" under their control.

"All citizens are requested to abstain from creating trouble and stay in peace and order," a broadcast said.

Paid by Nixon adviser

Writer 'spied' on McGovern

NEW YORK (UPI) — A freelance writer said Sunday she was paid $1,000 a week to travel with the George McGovern campaign last year and report her findings to a long-time Nixon associate who hired her for that purpose.

Lucianne Cummings Goldberg said she was employed by Murray Chotiner, a former adviser to President Nixon, "to just ride along on the plane and tell him what was going to happen the next day."

Mrs. Goldberg, however, denied published reports that the main purpose of her eight-week stint was to find the "really dirty stuff" in the private lives of those traveling with the Democratic presidential candidate.

Chotiner also denied that report but did confirm Mrs. Goldberg was hired at $1,000 a week to report on McGovern's daily activities because that information was not always available through the normal news channels. The White House had no comment.

The Washington Star News Sunday published a different version of Mrs. Goldberg's story. It quoted her as saying the information sought was not political intelligence but the "really dirty stuff—who was sleeping with who, what the Secret Service men were doing with the stewardesses, who was smoking pot on the plane—that sort of thing."

But Mrs. Goldberg told the UPI that quote was "not terribly accurate."

"They were not interested in sex and drugs and that sort of thing, they were interested in George McGovern, what his movements were, any change in plans or speeches. Anything I reported to them they could have read in the next day's newspaper," she said.

Reached at his Newport Beach, Calif., home, Chotiner confirmed that he hired Mrs. Goldberg.

Scranton woman, N.J. man killed in traffic accidents

DELAWARE, N.J. — A Scranton woman and a Bloomfield, N.J. man were killed in two separate auto accidents in New Jersey over the weekend.

Mrs. Frances Jarema, 22, 2306 Prospect Ave., Scranton, was pronounced dead on arrival at Warren Hospital in Phillipsburg, N.J. Sunday night.

Her husband, Charles W. Jarema, 22, was listed in fair condition with scalp, facial, ear, and arm cuts. The couple's eight-month-old son, Steve, was treated for cuts and held for observation.

Trooper Bronson DePue of the state police at Blairstown, said Jarema was driving west on Rte. 46, at 6:35 p.m. Sunday about three miles east of Delaware near the King Cole Grove Restaurant, when he lost control in a rainstorm.

Police said DePue's car veered into the eastbound lane where it struck a U-haul truck operated by David S. Andrew, 30, St. Louis, Mo.

Police said all of the injured were taken to the hospital by the Belvidere Rescue Squad. Andrew was treated for a fractured hand and discharged.

The accident closed traffic on both lanes for more than an hour. The Belvidere Fire Co. was called to the scene, but wasn't needed.

In the other fatality, Leonard R. Gabel, 8 Coolidge Ave., Bloomfield, N.J. was dead on arrival at the General Hospital of Monroe County following a one-car accident Friday night.

A passenger in his car, Ruthann Witte, 21, 190 Balantine Pkwy., Newark, N.J. remained in serious condition at the same hospital's Intensive Care Unit with multiple injuries.

Trooper Alvin Monzo said Gabel was driving west on Interstate 80 near Hope, N.J. at 9:35 p.m. Friday when he lost control of his car.

Police said the car went off the roadway striking a rock ledge and overturning. Both persons were trapped in the car for about a half hour.

Richardson to decide if jury can hear Agnew case

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said Sunday he ultimately would decide if any evidence involving Spiro T. Agnew is taken before a federal grand jury investigating political corruption in Maryland and if the vice president can be indicted while in office.

Richardson said he was not ready yet to make either decision. He also refused to speculate on the outcome of the investigation into allegations that Agnew was connected with a political kickback scheme in his home state and said it still was not clear whether the Constitution would bar indictment of a vice president.

Agnew vowed Saturday night to "fight to establish my innocence of any wrongdoing." Hours earlier, a special judge was named to supervise any possible grand jury action involving him.

Richardson said he had the "ultimate responsibility" as attorney general to decide whether evidence is presented to a grand jury in any case. "In this situation clearly I feel the responsibility I hold very keenly and I would expect to exercise it," he said.

His decision, he said, will be based on information collected about Agnew by the U.S. attorney for Maryland, George Beall, who is directing a federal grand jury investigation that has been under way in Baltimore since last December.

Asked who would decide if the grand jury could return an indictment against Agnew, Richardson replied: "I would have to be responsible for the ultimate resolution of that question also."

He declined to discuss the "particulars of how or in what way" he would make up his mind.

Poll goes against Nixon

NEW YORK — A Gallup poll commissioned by The New York Times said Sunday that approximately 44 per cent of those surveyed found President Nixon's Watergate speech last week "not convincing" while 27 per cent felt it was "completely" or "quite a lot" convincing. The Times said that the poll was taken from a national sample of 810 adults Thursday night, one day after Nixon made his address. The newspaper said that according to polling experts the margin of error could be as much as 4 percentage points on a sampling of that size. Other important results produced by the survey, the Times said, were: Half of those who watched the address did not believe Nixon's statement he had no involvement in the planning or cover-up of Watergate. Fifty-six per cent believed the President should turn over the tapes of his talks with his aides to the Senate Watergate committee. Fifty-eight per cent disagreed with Nixon's contention that "civil rights and antiwar protests helped create the atmosphere that led to the Watergate crimes."

Martial law lifted in Greece

ATHENS — Papadopoulos lifted Greek martial law and gave some political prisoners amnesty. The swearing in of George Papadopoulos of the Greek Republic's first president officially concluded the power struggle between the military and the exiled King Constantine. By publishing a draft constitution, Papadopoulos ended the martial law that had been in effect since he took over in 1967 and restored civil liberties. (Details on page 2.)

Explosions kill five, injure 64

PHNOM PENH — Explosions in Phnom Penh's marketplace and in two movie theaters killed five persons and wounded 64. The terrorism in the Cambodian capital appeared to mark a new phase of rebel attempts to topple President Lon Nol's government. In South Vietnam, meantime, communist troops attacked government positions at Hue but were repulsed.

Lethal chemical dumped in river

BATON ROUGE — A barge loaded with liquid chloroform sank along a river wharf Sunday and dumped an estimated 64,000 gallons of the lethal chemical into the Mississippi River. The Coast Guard warned all communities south of this southern Louisiana city to cease using all water from the Mississippi and to remove all livestock from the levee area. The Coast Guard said the spill represented about 850,000 pounds of the heavy chemical used in anesthesia, but declined to say how the accident occurred.

Third contractor reveals paying Agnew kickback

NEW YORK (UPI) — A third Maryland contractor has told the Justice Department he gave political kickbacks to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and officials think "an indictment appears inevitable," possibly by next month. Time magazine reported Sunday.

In its current edition, Time also said the Agnew has asked White House lawyers to help prepare a constitutional argument that would prevent his going to trial in the near future.

A federal grand jury in Baltimore "is expected to vote an indictment next month charging Agnew with, among other things, bribery and extortion," the magazine said.

Agnew, a former Baltimore County executive and governor of Maryland, has denied any wrongdoing.

Time quoted one Justice Department official in Washington as saying: "The department has no choice. At least three witnesses have told of diverting cash payments to Agnew. The evidence is so strong that the case must be taken to trial."

The magazine said the government now has three contractors in Maryland who apparently are prepared to testify they paid extorted campaign contributions to Agnew. The latest man to come forward was identified as Allen I. Green, 49, president of a Maryland engineering firm.

Green was said to have told investigators that he gave kickbacks to Agnew about five times a year during his governorship and on a reduced scale after he became Vice President in 1969. Agnew was governor of Maryland from 1967-68.

Agnew, according to Time, has asked how he might adopt Nixon's own defense that a President, or in his case, a vice president, cannot be prosecuted until after he is impeached, convicted and removed from office.

The vice president's financial records have come under federal scrutiny over an alleged widespread kickback scheme during Agnew's tenure.

The U.S. attorney for Maryland, George Beall, his assistants and Internal Revenue Service agents in Baltimore have started examining Agnew's tax, bank and investment records. Last week, the vice president turned over the material at Beall's request.

Cloud of deadly fumes causes evacuation in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Like something out of a horror movie the giant cloud of sulphurous fumes hung over south Los Angeles.

Police helicopters flew low over danger areas instructing residents to leave. Harbor patrol boats cruised near shore with loudspeaker bullhorns advising sunbathers and surfers to get out of an area from Huntington Beach to Newport Beach. Motorists on the 605 Freeway were warned to roll up their car windows.

The emergency arose Saturday after a leak in a pipe at the Stauffer Chemical Co. in Carson spilled 100,000 gallons of liquid oleum, a solution containing 30 per cent sulphuric acid used for cleaning purposes and in refineries.

Upon coming in contact with the air, the oleum was converted into gaseous sulphur trioxide which rose to a height of 1,500 feet and was wafted in a southeasterly direction toward the Pacific.

Authorities said Sunday that all danger from the toxic gas—which at one time covered a 25 square mile area—had passed.

Five plant workers were overcome Saturday, seven sheriff's deputies were treated for fume inhalation and 26 other persons were admitted to hospitals suffering respiratory irritations.

The sheriff's department in the Carson area ordered the complete evacuation of a three square mile residential area known as the "Presidential Tract" because streets are named after American presidents. About 5,000 people live in the area.

Young Kennedy faces driving charge today

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI) — In a tiny courtroom expected to be filled to capacity by reporters and spectators, Joseph P. Kennedy III appears Monday to answer a charge of negligent driving in a case that left a teen-age girl seriously injured.

Kennedy, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was scheduled to leave Hyannis at 8:30 a.m. today with his mother Ethel Kennedy for the Nantucket District courtroom located 20 miles off Cape Cod, a family friend said.

Kennedy was operating an open car Monday when it flipped, seriously injuring Pamela Kelley, 18, of Centerville. Several other persons, including Kennedy's younger brother, David, were also injured. David remained in Cape Cod Hospital with a sprained back. He was not expected to be released for several days.

Miss Kelley was listed in serious, but improving condition at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis, with a back injury which left both her legs paralyzed.

The spokesman for the Kennedy family said the girl experienced some feeling in her feet Saturday. She was visited by a large number of friends and relatives, including Joseph Kennedy, the spokesman said.

39 black NFL players have sickle cell anemia

CHICAGO (UPI) — At least 39 black players in the National Football League carry the sickle cell trait in their blood, according to a study published Sunday by the American Medical Association.

The AMA Journal published results of a study of blood samples from 579 black NFL players by Dr. John R. Murphy of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

The tests showed that 39 of the 579, or 6.7 per cent, carried the sickle cell trait. Murphy said the proportion is approximately the same as estimates of the trait in the general black population.

Twenty of the league's 26 teams participated in the study and some 98.5 per cent of the black members of those teams had their blood sampled, the report said.

W'gate biggest issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Directly challenging President Nixon's suggestion that Americans put Watergate behind them, Common Cause Chairman John Gardner said Sunday the scandal is "the most important question facing the people today."

Gardner said he felt Nixon could not have sensed the scandal's impact when he urged the nation last Wednesday to shift attention from Watergate to other pressing problems.

"When Mr. Nixon says we must put this behind us in order to deal with more important things, he fails to see that this is the most important thing," said the leader of the self-styled citizens' lobby.

"The responsiveness of our government, the extent of which the functioning of our government was broken down, is the most important question facing the American people today."

He was interviewed on television (Meet the Press — NBC).

Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare during the Johnson Administration said the most disturbing feature of the Watergate affair was the failure of those involved to see the importance of law as the basis for government.

Civil liberties given to Greeks

ATHENS (UPI) — George Papadopoulos took the oath as Greece's first president Sunday and immediately declared a general amnesty for all political prisoners and the restoration of civil liberties suspended after his military coup six years ago.

Papadopoulos announced that martial law, in effect since he and other Army colonels seized power in April 1967, had been lifted effective Sunday.

He said a new government would be formed in October to prepare for parliamentary elections and an end to the six-year-old military regime.

Papadopoulos, who had been serving as premier, was appointed to a seven-year term as president under terms of a referendum approved by voters on July 29.

"For the realization of the precious and necessary national unity for the safeguarding of our future, I decided to take the responsibility of the amnesty of all political crimes," Papadopoulos said in his nationally televised inauguration speech.

"The amnesty excludes only the disciplinary offenses of military and state officials related to the unmet crimes," he said. This would deprive the amnesty to a group of Greek navy officers arrested and charged with plotting a pro-monarchy coup last May, who are still to be tried.

Papadopoulos also said the amnesty was applicable to political offenses committed within the boundaries of Greece, a qualification that appeared to rule out pardons to Greek exiles, including actress Melina Mercouri who was stripped of her citizenship for participating in "action harmful to Greece" outside the country.

"The amnesty excludes only the disciplinary offenses of military and state officials related to the unmet crimes," he said.

Soviets find large diamond

MOSCOW (UPI) — Siberian miners have found a 232-carat diamond, the largest ever found in the Soviet Union, the newspaper Sovetskaya Latvia said Sunday.

The report said the stone was found in the diamond fields at Mirnyy in the Yakutskaya region of Siberia.

Sovetskaya Latvia said the new diamond had been named "Fifty Years of Aeroflot" in commemoration of Soviet Aviation Day which is being observed Sunday.

The previous record Soviet diamond was the 105.98 - karat Maria, which was found in 1966.

The largest diamond ever discovered was a 3,106-carat stone found in Pretoria, South Africa.

Nixon ends long silence today with blast at Senate

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon breaks a six-week moratorium on public appearances today with a speech criticizing the Senate for blocking his efforts to achieve a permanent peace in Southeast Asia.

With his address to a Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in New Orleans, the President also will be embarking on a campaign to reassert his leadership in the wake of the Watergate scandal and he was reported ready to appeal for maintaining a strong defense posture in the post-Vietnam war period.

Nixon, here for a quiet weekend, spent part of Sunday working on the speech in the study of his bayside villa, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said.

With him were his wife Pat and three of his aides—Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and speechwriter Patrick J. Buchanan.

The President's last public appearance outside of the White House was on July 9 when he spoke in Kansas City, Mo., at swearing-in ceremonies for FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley.

From New Orleans, Nixon will fly to California for a stay of about two weeks at his estate in San Clemente. While there, he is scheduled to hold his first news conference since March 15.

The President sounded the theme for his VFW speech last week when he issued a statement marking the congressionally mandated Aug. 15 bombing halt in Cambodia and saying the action threatened the structure of peace.

ce, a qualification that appeared to rule out pardons to Greek exiles, including actress Melina Mercouri who was stripped of her citizenship for participating in "action harmful to Greece" outside the country.

"The amnesty excludes only the disciplinary offenses of military and state officials related to the unmet crimes," he said.

Educator attends seminar

BETHLEHEM — Karl Dickl, vice principal of Stroudsburg Area High School, is among 10 Pennsylvania and New Jersey educators currently participating in a Lehigh University summer seminar in school building.

The program is being conducted by the University's School of Education.

The seminar, which is designed as a survey of the principles and practices in school building, will conclude on Aug. 28.

The program is being directed by Dr. Natt B. Burbank, professor and assistant dean emeritus of Lehigh's School of Education.

Included in the seminar is a study of the entire process of school building, from long-range planning through financing, detailed planning and construction, to occupancy.

Much attention is given to innovative approaches to the problem of providing educational space.

Resource people are participating in the seminar in an effort to broaden the scope of study and discussion.

In addition, five field trips are being taken to visit school buildings, with subsequent analysis in class.

Special emphasis is also placed on the recent change in the rate of population growth, and its probable impact on school building needs.

School registration scheduled

HAWLEY — The Wallenpaupack Area School District has announced registration dates for children entering any of the district's elementary schools.

The elementary schools in the district are in Blooming Grove, Greeley, Hawley, Lackawaxen, Lakeville, Newfoundland, Paupack and White Mills.

Parents must register their children in the office of the elementary principal, Academy Street, Hawley, from 9 a.m. to noon or 1 to 3:30 p.m. on Aug. 21, 22, 23, 24, 28, 29, 30 or 31.

The Newfoundland Elementary School will be accepting registrations for that school from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Friday, Aug. 31.

No registrations will be accepted anywhere in the elementary school district on Sept. 4, 5, 6 or 7.

Students who previously attended any of the eight elementary schools or the three kindergarten centers are automatically enrolled.

Board meeting

SWIFTWATER — The Pocono Mountain Board of School Directors will meet in a special session for general purposes at 9 p.m. Wednesday in the junior-senior high school.

Milford bridge also sees loss

DWG bridge traffic drops

MORRISVILLE, Pa. — Figures released by the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission indicate an increase of nearly 25,000 in vehicular traffic on the commission's six toll bridges during the month of July.

The figures show 2,778,956 vehicles used the six spans during July of this year, up 24,636 from the same period of 1972. The gain represents a nine-tenths of one per cent increase in traffic over July of last year.

Income for July of this year totaled $621,605.05, a revenue increase of 6.17 per cent when compared with July of 1972. Traffic is up 3.12 per cent for the first seven months of 1973, while revenue has increased 7.52 per cent.

A total of 16,828,847 vehicles, yielding $3,904,678, used the six toll bridges during the first seven months of this year, while 16,319,866 vehicles yielding $3,631,715.90 used the bridges last year during a comparable period.

Traffic on the Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge during the month of July showed a decrease of 4.42 per cent, while revenue was off 1.85 per cent compared to July of 1972.

A total of 592,344 vehicles used the toll bridge during the month to provide a daily average of 19,108 passages. Income for the month totaled $193,781.65, providing a daily average of $6,251.01.

July of 1972 figures show 619,761 vehicles which yielded $197,431.95 used the toll bridge in that month.

Traffic is up 2.82 per cent for the first seven months of 1973, while revenue is up 2.31 per cent. A total of 2,884,849 vehicles yielding $1,089,885.85 have used the toll bridge during the first seven months of this year, providing an average daily passage of 13,608 vehicles and $5,140.97 in revenue per day.

During the month of July, traffic on the Milford-Montague Toll Bridge showed a decrease of 3.62 per cent, while revenue decreased one per cent as compared to July of the previous year.

A total of 127,270 vehicles used the toll bridge during the month to provide a daily average of 4,105 passages. Income for the month totaled $22,440.25.

Traffic in July of 1972 amounted to 132,044 vehicles, yielding $22,693.30 in revenue.

Traffic is up five per cent for the first seven months of 1973, while revenue has increased 6.42 per cent. A total of 553,416 vehicles yielding $92,197.60 have used the toll bridge during the first seven months of 1973, providing a daily use of 3,610 vehicles and $434.89 in revenue per day.

Traffic on the Portland-Columbia Toll Bridge showed an increase of 5.66 per cent during July, while revenue increased 32.54 per cent as compared to July of 1972.

A total of 69,291 vehicles used the toll bridge during the month to provide a daily average of 2,235 passages. Income for the month totaled $15,129.45, providing a daily average of $488.05.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has such children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, the family should contact the school. They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents.

Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. Additional copies are available at the nurses' office in each school.

The form itself is simple to complete and requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family and any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay.

The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy, the school nurses and cafeteria chairman will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the local official, he may make a request in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Merle W. Mabus, board secretary, whose address is 44 S. Third St., Bangor, has been designated as the hearing official.

A complete copy of the policy is on file in Mabus' office.

'Tag' petition submitted

UPPER MT. BETHEL — A group of 19 businessmen in Upper Mt. Bethel Township have petitioned township supervisors to dub the area the "Southern Poconos."

The group feels that, as Upper Mt. Bethel is in close proximity to the Poconos and its scenery is equal to the Poconos, it should be permitted "to share in the increasing multi-million dollar tourist trade." The addition of the tag "The Southern Poconos" to the township's title, they say, would make residents and visitors aware of the businessmen's "efforts and goals."

Local soil scientist helps out at jamboree

STROUDSBURG — Garland H. Lipscomb, soil scientist with the Soil Conservation Service, USDA, of Stroudsburg, helped staff the SCS exhibits at the 1973 National Boy Scout Jamboree last week at Moraine State Park in Butler County.

More than 47,000 Scouts and about 10,000 leaders from nearly every state attended the jamboree. Thousands of parents and other visitors thronged the jamboree area throughout the week.

"Conservation in Action" was the theme of the SCS exhibit which featured demonstrations of conservation practices in the protection and management of soil, water, and other resources.

At the entrance of the SCS "Conservation in Action" trail was a mural showing both natural and man-made changes in resources and land use that have occurred in the vicinity of Moraine State Park over the years.

As the Scouts continued along the trail, Lipscomb and other SCS conservationists explained how resources can be managed to improve the quality of the environment.

Scouts also put together miniature soil profiles which they took home as a memento of the 1973 jamboree, and which helped them understand how soils are formed and how they make up the base for plant growth which in turn is the food base for all animal life, including people.

Raising chickens

By MAUREEN RUFÉ

Pocono Record Reporter

BRODHEADSVILLE — Did you know that a chicken can "steal a nest" or that a hen won't eat or drink for three weeks while she's hatching out a young brood?

Can you picture yourself climbing trees to catch some young hens each night to show them that home is in the chicken coop — the place where they're supposed to roost, but don't?

Quite frankly, I myself, have never been much good at climbing at all, let alone trees, so I guess I can never realize my ultimate dream of becoming a small-time chicken farmer.

I would estimate that it was about two weeks ago that I was hit by the brain storm to go into the chicken business. It came to me just after I checked out of the grocery store and had to pay $10 for a bag that could easily fit into my glove compartment.

Why not raise chickens of my own, I intelligently ascertained. Free eggs, free poultry and no work.

If you ever come up with the same bright idea, I suggest you check with a veteran West End farmer to find out what's really involved in raising those fine feathered birds.

First, you have to collect eggs every day, have to have an adequate place to cool them (they age rapidly when not refrigerated) and you have to keep checking to make sure a chicken doesn't steal away with a nest.

She actually doesn't steal the straw, but she finds a secret hiding place to lay and hatch her brood without you finding out about it until it's too late.

For two or three weeks, she won't eat or drink until the chicks are hatched. Each day she has to move each egg to make sure that the chick doesn't dry fast to the shell. (That's what that little air space is for in the end of the egg.)

When hatching time arrives, the babies peck a tiny hole in the shell and gradually break it open. If they don't have the strength to do it alone, the farmer has to do it for them or they will dry fast to the egg shell and die.

And then the work starts with the young ones. Reinforcing them to eat at the same spot every day is a job, but at night — what a circus. The young hens think they should roost in trees, so for about two to three weeks, every night they have to be collected from the tree branches and taken back to the coop to roost.

And then, too, there's the cost of feed, which has more than doubled in the last year and the cost of building a permanent chicken coop.

One of the unpleasant parts of the whole affair is having to clean out that coop at least once a month and during the winter, that chore doesn't sound too appealing. Lastly, of course there is the problem of butchering the birds and cleaning them, something that I don't know if I'm quite ready for yet.

There's something about lopping off a chicken's head with an ax that rubs me the wrong way.

After talking to my chicken expert in the West End, I've decided that the cost of eggs and poultry is now worth it.

The chicken farmers can climb trees, clean coops and pluck the birds; I'll be happy to let the chicken raising up to them.

Watergate 'distraction' worries administration brass

By DONALD R. LARRABEE
Ottawa Service News
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent, who came into the Nixon Cabinet before the Watergate dam broke, is worried about the "distracting" effect of the Republican political scandal on the number one domestic problem - the economy.

Dent tells visitors the national pre-occupation with Watergate comes at a time when both the President and the people desperately need to focus on the goals of U.S. economic policy. It is a view shared - but not always openly voiced - by frustrated officials in the Nixon Administration.

"Part of the problem of the uncertainty of the dollar in foreign markets is related to this," Dent declared in an interview last week. "Watergate distracts the country. Here we are in a key time in the economic life of our nation. Are there enough people analyzing it? Are we having critical discussion as to whether our economic policies are right?"

Repeatedly, in the course of the interview, the South Carolina textile executive stressed that President Nixon's initiatives with the Soviet Union, China and other world powers are being obscured or down - played in the massive attention being given to the "negatives" of the Nixon presidency.

It is a theme that Administration officials, and the President himself, can be expected to hit increasingly.

Dent said America is emerging from the era when it served as the world's military and political leader and must now turn its attention to vigorous trade competition in far - flung markets.

He emphasized that America must greatly expand its commitment to sell abroad if it hopes to maintain confidence in the dollar. And he predicted a major expansion of foreign investment in plant and equipment in this country.

And, finally, he criticized those areas of the country which, he said, are hanging back on their economic development plans for environmental or seemingly-insoluble technological reasons.

Dent talks glowingly of the potential for international commercial trade which he believes has been set in motion by the President's overtures toward Communist China and the Soviet Union.

"A whole new vista is opening up," he said. "The communist nations want to expand this trade, to get our technology, to provide for their people a greater quantity of goods and services. It all may lead to a radically different approach to their economies. They want joint ventures and U.S. investments. We are moving into an era where we are going to have to compete on the basis of the products of our farms, firms and plants.

"Until recently, our national objective from the end of World War Two was to assist in developing war - torn economies. To do this, we maintained an overvalued dollar and an uncompetitive investment recovery system. We found ourselves with $80 billion in private U. S. capital investment offshore and without a commitment to export. Now, because of our deficit position in trade and payments, we must reverse this.

Having just completed a tour of emerging countries which are struggling to develop their economies, the Commerce Secretary is disturbed by signs in some areas of the country of an "economic stagnation" created by environmental-technological considerations and by a lethargic failure to make a commitment to fixed economic goals.

"It is discouraging," he said, "to see those who resist progress out of fear for damaging the environment or the failure in other ways of our technology. This flies in the face of the traditional American road to progress where we have set a goal and insisted that the results live up to the standards we set."

The Cabinet official said, incidentally, he sees a "remarkable" change in policy and approach taking place at the White House in the post-Haldeman-Ehrlichman period. He calls it a "policy change on the President's part, not personnel, although it happened to coincide."

Dent said he believes President Nixon will survive his current ordeal and that history will be kind to him because of his leadership in the cause of world peace and prosperity.

Get moving on ice plant

After much delay, caused by gosh knows what, Stroudsburg Borough Council is about to take action on that ramshackle old ice plant on Second Street.

We hope that action is taken without much further delay. Not only is it an eyesore, it is dangerous as well. We have been fortunate indeed that no one so far has been badly injured because of that plant.

Children throng around the site. We know many play outside, and some inside. It wouldn't take much — a moment's carelessness, a child in the wrong place — for someone to be badly hurt.

There's another danger. Abandoned buildings are peculiarly subject to the thrills of an arsonist. Many such buildings have been set afire in many cities throughout the country. It is surprising that this one hasn't gone the same way by now.

Children play with matches, you know. It isn't just an arsonist who can set off a fire that would endanger the lives of firefighters as well as neighbors.

There is a legal procedure that must be followed before the old ice plant can be torn down. We urge that this procedure be initiated as soon as possible. So far, we have been lucky. There is no guarantee that luck will last.

It's tomato time

A while ago we were complaining that the wet early growing season had deprived us not only of fun in the sun, but of the ripened fruits of our gardening labor. And we weren't alone in that complaint.

Well, a couple of days ago, an elderly gent of our acquaintance sauntered into the office with an air of insouciance that led us to believe he was up to something. Sure enough, he had come to gloat.

Reminding us that we had waxed bitter about the large but green tomatoes on the vines, he hauled out a basket from behind his back and proceeded to display some of the biggest, juiciest, reddest looking tomatoes we have ever seen.

"Been down to the market with 'em," he chuckled, "and the produce feller there offered to buy every one of them — and at top prices, too!"

His secret? Beyond the usual TLC (Tender Loving Care) he used manure for fertilizer, kept away from the commercial stuff and was careful to keep the soil around the plant loose. In fact, he loosened the soil the small plants came in before he planted them.

He had no more secrets, for which we were disappointed, but he had these large tomatoes, for which we were grateful. We're sure there are many others throughout the county whose tomatoes are as ripe and red, and we're happy for them. Now if only our own tomatoes would shed some of their green...

"... yes, exercise daily, but as a human being. And an urgent word of caution: If you are over 35, avoid as if they were particularly virulent forms of mortal plague, the following: handball, competitive tennis, jogging, competitive basketball, any variety of football or soccer and any sport in which (excess) physical straining plays an important part and don't struggle incessantly to accomplish too many things in too little space of time."

Nixon, Brezhnev and Karl Marx

Marx joins the Army. Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende, now has to admit that he can govern only by force. Twice in 10 months his economic policies have brought his country to the brink of chaos, each time worse than before.

His solution: He has turned to the army to avert civil war. He has taken military leaders into his cabinet. The question which may soon be answered is whether Allende has taken over the army or whether the army has taken over Allende.

A World Terrorist Conspiracy? Intelligence sources in Washington are becoming convinced that an international terrorist organization is beginning to operate on a world scale.

It does not appear to be of Arab origin. It isn't operating primarily against Israelis. It is both anti-American and anti-Russian.

Western and Arab analysts are reaching the conclusion that the skyjacking of the Japan Airlines jumbo jet in July and the murders at the Athens airport this month are manifestations of a new terrorist group.

Neither of these two latest terrorist acts appears to be connected with the Black September organization which is normally quick to claim credit.

No Shield Law for Press. There are two reasons why Congress is not going to enact any law protecting the press against having to disclose its news sources if called into court.

1 — A limited shield law is unsatisfactory to the press.

2 — An unlimited shield law is unsatisfactory to Congress.

There aren't 75 votes in the House in favor of an absolute law which would give reporters a blanket right to decline to testify in court about information they receive and the sources from which they receive it.

Nixon and Price Controls. The irony of current Administration economic policy is that neither the President nor the Council of Economic Advisers really relish price controls. The officials administering them don't believe in the price controls they are administering. The prevailing view in Washington is that political considerations are dominating economic decisions.

Who's for Bugging? Most congressmen said "Shame on you!" when it was learned that the President was bugging telephones to check on leaks of government secrets. But it was Congress which passed the law authorizing such bugging and repassed it over President Johnson's veto!

Who's for Protecting the President? After the assassination of President Kennedy, Congress gave the Secret Service and the General Services Administration authority to spend whatever was necessary to tighten protection. Now, many suggest that the $10 million spent almost entirely for added protection on Mr. Nixon's California and Florida residences was too much.

Is the President Above the Law? John D. Ehrlichman testified before the Ervin committee that it was legal and proper to break into the Los Angeles' office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist as long as the break-in was to protect national security. Former Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis dissents. He warned in 1928: "Decency, security and liberty alike demand the government officials shall be subjected to the same rules of conduct that are commands to the citizen."

In a government of laws, existence of the government will be imperiled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously. Crime is contagious. If the government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy.

Soviet cameras looked the other way. Pravda and Izvestia never printed pictures when Leonid Brezhnev was hoisted ceremoniously into the air by a boisterous Hollywood film star or when he spilled champagne at a State Department reception or drove around Camp David in a golf cart. Too undignified. The Soviet press also never showed Brezhnev driving the new Lincoln Continental given to him by the President.

Price control 'Horror File'

WASHINGTON — With the end of most price controls, the Administration is heaping praise on itself for its few paltry victories on behalf of an inflation - weary public. But the Cost of Living Council's secret files are bulging with tales of unpublished failures.

Many of the folders are stuffed with outraged (and often unanswered) letters from Americans who find their food or footwear going up astronomically. But in one drawer is the "Horror File" of cases where strict controls backfired.

These are cases where letter - of - the - law controls drove small companies into near - bankruptcy, killed competition that might have forced down prices, or swept willing workers out of their jobs.

The "Horror File," as it is called among Council executives, has come into our possession. The Council has used code - names like "Strongarm Detective Agency" or "Eaglebutton Manufacturing" to hide the names of the 35 companies involved, and spokesmen refused flatly to identify the companies to us by name.

"Eaglebutton," for example, is "an unprofitable manufacturer controlled by 'Thousandpercent, Inc.' " whose overall profits were near the federal ceiling. Thus, under law, "Eaglebutton" could not increase its prices and get out of the red.

Ignored regulations "Strongarm Detective Agency" took the law into its own hands. Faced with low profits, it decided "to ignore the . . . regulations," says a Horror File memo. "The chances it will be audited are small, it reasons, and its accounting system and pricing policies are such that any violation would be difficult to unearth even in an audit."

"Sierra Motors," apparently Chrysler or American Motors, was "an automobile manufacturer facing serious losses. It had hoped for some relief when the big tow increased their '73 prices. It would be eligible for price increases . . . but cannot now improve its position because of competition from the Big Two . . ."

The toll of controls on humanitarian business programs was evidenced at "Garner Computers," which had trained 10 disadvantaged apprentices for three years. "When they graduated from the training program," the memo notes, "the company was able to give them no more than 7.5 percent wage increase and the workers left for new employment."

"Moe Microdynamics" was an electronics firm pouring money into research "in order to meet emerging Japanese capability." Because it could not raise prices, research plans shuddered to a halt.

"Baresheff" canned goods needed a price increase to keep up its inventory between harvests. But the increase was illegal, and "without these increases, it is almost certain to run out of inventory and lose shelf position and, with it, customer loyalty."

Pension scuttled At "Peter Rabbit Dairies," the company decided to give workers a profit - sharing pension plan instead of a wage hike. But because this would mean an increase in real wages of 20 per cent the first year, "the company had to drop the plan."

The controls also led to ingenious evasions. "Tablebottoms and Son" buys lumber products, but its supplier could not provide them at controlled prices. So "Tablebottoms" gave the supplier kickbacks by paying higher transportation costs.

"Allchiefs Company" got around the controls by changing job titles but not jobs. "Freedom Fashions" changed its clothing line slightly and jacked up prices. And "Micromasure Mills" altered cuts of lumber microscopically, claimed to have a "new product" and raised prices.

All in all, the system was hampered by efforts of the Council "bureaucracy to seek to perpetuate itself," rules that "impeded" and "inhibited" recovery and expansion, and sloppy enforcement.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle put the crusher on Rentzel for "conduct detrimental to the NFL." This, I submit, is the easy way out. The crowded subways and parks where thick crowds gather are laced with idiots who press too close to attractive ladies. The cops call them "warmers."

"Warmers" are different from the rest of us. They are sexually frightened men. On rare occasions, when they warm a friendly lady, and she smiles over her shoulder, the "Warmer" runs for his life. This also applies to the love cowards who practice indecent exposure.

I never met Lance Rentzel. I know that he is dark, good - looking, 29 years of age and, as a wide receiver, caught 13 passes in one game for 233 yards. He has talent, affluent parents, and had a marriage to Joey Heatherton.

Any district attorney who has dealt with this type of behavior knows that Mr. Rentzel is a sickie. To be married to a pretty movie actress and still do the topcoat flip in front of kids establishes a prima facie case.

It is important to have an examination of the children to determine whether they have sustained a traumatic experience. If there is no emotional damage, Lance Rentzel should undergo psychiatric treatment so that he will understand his adolescent attitude toward females. When he sees himself for what he is, growth and maturity will become possible.

If, on the other hand, the girls have been irreparably hurt, a one - year suspension by Rozelle will correct nothing. In that case Rentzel should be filed away in a sanitarium where his pants can be welded together. The smoking of marijuana is reputedly so common among younger football players that, if Rozelle is serious about it, future suspensions will decimate the teams.

I am hardly a fan of swingin' Joe Namath, but Rozelle said Joe's restaurant catered to "undesirable customers." Namath had to sell out. Who decides who is "undesirable"? One further question: undesirable to whom?

A decade ago, Pete suspended Alex Karras and Paul Hornung for football betting. As I recall, neither bet against his own team or his own performance. It was not a sell - out, like the White Sox baseball scandal of 1919. So far, Rozelle has never suspended an owner. And please don't tell me that all of them are haloed saints.

Lance Rentzel must be fairly honest about himself. Not long ago he wrote: "Exhibitionism is not my only problem. It is probably the most obvious symptom of it." He is prepared to accept treatment. The fans who pay to see the Los Angeles Rams beaten are going to yell "pervert" at him. The young man is going to have to take it.

I think back on evenings when I used to cover Night Court on 54th Street in New York. Hymie Bushel was the judge. From ten p.m. onward, there was a parade of drunken wife - beaters and "indecent exposures." The old judge had mellowed. He sent the wife - beaters to the can; the coat - flippers went to Bellevue Hospital to the shrink. At 2 a.m. we had mugs of steaming coffee and sugar - dusted doughnuts. "The only way to cut down on the sick ones," he said, "is to send them off to Doctor Baumann."

"When he pounds into their heads their sexual inadequacies, they start growing up a little at a time. Baumann takes the fun out of it."

Rozelle is a competent commissioner. Perhaps a great one. But for Pete's sake, when the problem involves off - the - field activities, he should ask for competent social counsel...

Nixon's energy czar warns ecologists to compromise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House energy czar John Love said Sunday the environmentalist movement could lose its public support unless it takes a more practical approach to the nation's energy crisis.

Love, in a UPI Washington Window interview, said that "perhaps the greatest danger to the environmental movement could come if we got some people who became cold or were stranded" because of environmental restrictions on the use of available energy.

The former Colorado governor said environmentalists should "seek a better balance" between developing resources and protecting the environment. "We can't be extreme in either area," he added.

"I think that it is to the nation's best interest and to the environmentalist's best interest to realize that there must be a practical sense of balance brought to this problem."

If a practical compromise cannot be worked out, he said, the "greatest danger to the environmentalist movement would come not 'from any policy from this office,' but from a backlash among groups affected by energy shortages."

He said the backlash could reach a point where support for achieving and maintaining a clean environment "might reverse itself."

Love said the current gasoline shortage "isn't going to get better soon... and if the demand continues to increase over the next several years, we are going to have a more severe problem."

He acknowledged that the government is updating plans in the event gasoline rationing becomes necessary, but added: "I'm not forecasting that we're going to ration gasoline either soon or in the foreseeable future, I hope."

He said "the first problem that is more likely in point of time is heating oil." Heating oil supplies now are about "eight million barrels above this time last year —but last year was not a very good inventory year, and we didn't have a difficult winter," he said.

If the demand for heating oil rises sharply, "we may indeed have a shortage," he said, but added the government was "doing everything we can to keep the refineries running at full capacity, and maximizing imports."

Quick thinking backhoe operator saves men's lives

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The quick thinking of a digging machine operator may have saved the lives of two men who were buried under about five feet of dirt when the sides of a trench caved in on them Sunday.

The two men, Bill Snyder, 23, of Eastland, Mo., and Dave Enloe, 30, Kansas City, Kan., were buried for 20 minutes when the sides of the trench they were digging for a sewer line in downtown Kansas City caved in. Both men escaped serious injury.

Kenneth Jordan, 39, of Lather, Mo., operator of the back hoe used to dig the trench, swung the huge shovel over the men and kept more of the dirt from caving in on them.

Snyder, talking as he brushed off his clothes and picked clumps of clay out of his pocket money, said he heard the supports begin cracking.

"We began to run when we heard the supports give," Snyder said. "We didn't make it."

Fellow workmen and firemen dug frantically to free the two men.

"I could hear them shovelling and talking while I was buried," Snyder said. When asked if he could breathe freely while he was buried, he said, "Of course. If I couldn't I wouldn't be here."

Snyder took a dented can of snuff from his hip pocket, stuck a small amount of it in his lip and insisted he was not shaken up. Enloe was in good condition at a hospital.

Nuclear test opposed

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — Prime Minister Gough Whitlam denounced a reported French atmospheric nuclear test Sunday—the third since July—as a "defiance of law and morality."

The New Zealand government in Wellington said France exploded a nuclear device over the Mururoa Atoll, 720 miles southeast of Papeete, Tahiti.

French radio in Paris quoted New Zealand reports indicating the force of the explosion was between 5 and 10 kilotons—the equivalent of between 5,000 and 10,000 tons of dynamite.

The reported small force of Sunday's explosion indicated the French army had again tested the trigger for the French hydrogen bomb.

There was no official information from the French government on Sunday's test. France has refused all official comment on its current series of nuclear tests which have generated intense controversy in South Pacific nations worried about radioactive fallout.

"The previous French tests attracted world wide opposition," Whitlam said. "I am sure that this latest test will be equally condemned."

Israel sends Lebanon bill for hijacked plane parking

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli aviation authorities Sunday sent a bill for $1,666 to Lebanon's Middle East Airlines for fuel and parking fees for its jetliner forced to land at Lod International airport Thursday by an Arab hijacker.

A spokesman said food and drinks for those aboard would be on the house.

A government official, meantime, said Israel will reject any extradition request by Lebanon, choosing to put hijacker Mohammed Al-Touni of Libya on trial itself.

Ezra Balas, deputy director of Lod airport, said the bill was mailed to MEA's Paris office. He said Capt. Adel Kawa, pilot captain of the hijacker Boeing 707, "signed an invoice for the services."

"I suppose they'll pay," Balas said. He said it was the first time an Arab company had been billed by Israeli aviation authorities.

Balas said the bill came to "something like 7,000 pounds ($1,666) for what we owe the local fuel suppliers and for the customary parking charge."

The charges run up for feeding the 119 passengers and crew during the five-hour stopover at Lod, he said, "will be paid by the airport administration."

Defense minister Moshe Dayan and Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the armed forces chief of staff, reported to the cabinet at its regular weekly meeting about the hijacking but there was no formal discussion about extraditing al-Touni, a cabinet spokesman said.

Religious affairs minister

Bradley improving

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley is in satisfactory condition and has "continued to improve since last Friday" when he underwent an operation to prevent blood clots on the lungs, a hospital spokesman said Sunday.

Bradley, 80, the nation's only remaining five star general, was admitted to UCLA Medical Center a week ago and was described as in "serious" condition.

The general's condition improved sufficiently over the weekend so that the army abandoned its daily medical bulletins.

Zerah Warhaftig, in response to a question about an extradition appeal from Lebanon, was told none had been received and that "designated legal procedures will be followed" in Israel concerning the hijacker, the spokesman said.

An army spokesman said no contacts had been made with Lebanese or U.N. truce supervision officers at the northern border post of Rosh Hanikra, where representatives of the two countries have met in the past.

But since the 1967 Middle East war, Israel has repeatedly said it does not recognize the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission, through which Lebanese Prime Minister Takiyeddin el-Solh said Saturday an extradition request might be directed.

Al-Touni, who said he hijacked the jetliner on a flight from Libya to Lebanon to prove all Arabs did not hate the Israelis, is being held in jail 15 miles from Jerusalem.

Probe requested of food canners

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The newly organized Food Action Campaign has asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate charges that the nation's large food canners are holding supplies off the market until Phase IV price controls are lifted.

Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary James McHale, a spokesman for the group, charged that "by deliberately stemming the flow of canned goods to market, the canners have created artificial shortages."

In a speech prepared for delivery today at a regional AFL-CIO convention here, McHale said the Food Action Campaign sent a letter to the FTC "bringing this manipulation to their attention" and asking the commission to break up food canning monopolies.

The Food Action Campaign was organized earlier this month by groups seeking to bring pressure on the government to end food monopolies. The prime movers are the Agribusiness Accountability Project, the New Populist Action Group and the Project on Corporate Responsibility.

"While consumers are struggling to find something on the store shelves to eat," McHale said, "the giant canners appear to be hoarding their supplies of canned goods. These corporations are holding out for higher profits."

McHale said an Aug. 10 report by the Wall Street Journal quoted the National Canners Association, a trade group, as saying many of its 500 members were withholding supplies and that stocks of canned apricots, asparagus, green beans and peas would run out shortly.

"No doubt," McHale said, "they will use these shortages to argue for price increases in stage two of Phase IV, which is due on Sept. 12. Then they will release their hoarded goods for sale to consumers at higher prices and they will enjoy still higher prices."

Under the current Phase IV controls, canners are not allowed to increase prices to fatten their profits, but they can pass through higher costs of raw foods.

Army wants you, even at age 81

DETROIT (UPI) — Theodore Elich was somewhat surprised to receive a letter from his draft board asking him to register.

Elich is 81 years old. "They must be talking about World War I," he said Saturday. "I never registered for that one."

Actually, Elich was in Yugoslavia during World War I.

Aspin dresses down military over dress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon plans to spend $34,000 to dress up officers' servants to look like something out of musical comedy, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., charged Sunday.

Aspin said he had learned the military signed a contract to buy tuxedo pants, swallowtail coats, cummerbunds, mess jackets, bow ties and white tuxedo shirts for the enlisted men who serve as personal aides to admirals and generals.

"The uniforms are for enlisted aides assigned to Ft. Myer, just outside the nation's capital, 'where most of the top generals and admirals are quartered,' Aspin said.

He said he has asked Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger to "get rid of those monkey suits immediately."

"Military officers shouldn't have personal servants in the first place," Aspin said. "But as long as they do, they should at least let them dress like soldiers, instead of like characters in a musical comedy."

Bazaar benefit by fire co. aux.

SAYLORSBURG — A bazaar sponsored by the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Co. Auxiliary will be held Saturday, Aug. 25, at the Saylorburg firehall.

They plan to have something for everyone from white elephants to jewelry, from baked goods to hand crafted items, home grown foods, lunch and refreshments as well as their handmade quilts.

By BARBARA GIBBONS

What this country needs, in addition to a chicken in every pot, is a team of top shrinks to look into our fanatical fascination for beef. There are hundreds of species of edible animal life, but Americans consider even the briefest beef shortage a national disaster.

It's no comfort to steak-starved shoppers, but indications are that Americans might be better off if all that beef really were to disappear — at least the kind of expensive, high-calorie, fat-marbled steaks and roasts we seem to prefer.

The heart people hint that our meat-heavy diet might be the cause of our national coronary epidemic, the worst in the world. There's no doubt

Labor Day weekend shows set

DELAWARE WATER GAP — An outdoor arts and crafts show will be combined with the showing of a loan exhibit of Sterling Strausser paintings on the Labor Day weekend in Delaware Water Gap.

The Triangle in the middle of the village will be the setting for the arts and crafts show on Sunday and Monday, Sept. 2 and 3.

The Antoine Dutot School and Museum exhibition room will be used for the showing of Strausser paintings from the collection of Edward Driebe on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 1, 2 and 3. In addition a bake sale will be held on Sunday.

The plans for both events were made final at the meeting of the School and Museum committee. Those present were Barbara Drake, Joanne Mayer, Holly Manheim, Connie Walck, Mabel Barnes, Clifford and Ruth Hauser, Horace and Elizabeth Walters, Mabel Lightner, Netti Shellenberger, Francis and Marian Drake, John and Lilline Jones, Clara Kaiser, Joan Powlus, Harold Croasdale, Paul Waring and Jean Wilson.

Pack meeting

BUCK HILL FALLS — Members of Cub Pack 89 and their dads will compete in a baseball game at the August pack meeting to be held Wednesday, Aug. 22, at 6:30 on the grounds of the Camp Club at Buck Hill Falls.

Leisure Hour

STROUDSBURG — The Leisure Hour Club will meet Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the YMCA in Stroudsburg.

Blessing in disguise?

Beef not necessarily best that the fatty meat calories add to our national girth-control problem, America's No. 1 health hazard. For years the experts have been chiding us to eat less fatty meat and more lean veal, poultry and seafood.

Why don't we? I suspect that if the white-coat crew took a closer look they'd find it's really a problem of semantics (people as a problem in semantics).

Semantics, of course, is the study of words and their meanings — or what people think they mean — an entire science devoted to the question of whether a rose by any other name would smell as sweet.

Now, consider for a moment the added-on meanings of our meat words.

Mrs. Thomas C. Abbott

Diane Shoemaker wed in Saturday ceremony

MOUNT BETHEL — Miss Diane L. Shoemaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam L. Shoemaker of Mount Bethel R. D. 1, was married at twelve noon on Saturday to Thomas C. Abbott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Abbott Sr. of 20 Hazen Ave., East Bangor.

They were married in Christ Lutheran Church, Stone Church, with a reception in the Mount Bethel firehall following the ceremony.

Mrs. Gary Steele was matron of honor and Miss Betty Miller was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Ackerman and Miss Bonnie Abbott, sister of the bridegroom. Robin Abbott, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Robert Abbott Jr. was his brother's best man. Ushers were William Godshalk; David Shoemaker, brother of the bride, and Arthur Weaver Jr. Michael Abbott, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of Bangor Area High School and Bloomsburg State College with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education. She is an elementary teacher in the Bangor Area School District.

Her husband was graduated from Bangor Area High School and is employed by Smith Vault Co., Bangor.

After a wedding trip to New England, the couple will make their home at 238 Washington St., Bangor.

Rhonda Treible celebrates third birthday

STROUDSBURG — Rhonda Sue Treible celebrated her third birthday with friends and relatives at the home of her parents, Bonnie and Bill Treible, Stroudsburg R. D. 2.

Party hats, noisemakers and balloons were given all the children. The birthday cake, decorated in white and pink with three ballerina dancers was served with soda.

Attending the party were Rhonda Sue's grandparents, Mildred and William Palmer, Gary, Michael, Jeanie and Debbie Palmer, Linda and Dawn Miller, Donna and Robyn Lee, Dawn Cuthill, Mary and Jamie Ealey, Judy and Brian Middaugh, Billy Beaver, Barry Boushell, Eleanor Storm, Cindy and Jerry Storm and Shelly Kist.

Also sending gifts were Bobby, Jeff and Tina Angradi.

Eagles Aux. initiates new member

STROUDSBURG — A new member, Elizabeth Mader, was initiated at the meeting of the Ladies Aux. She had been proposed by Ann Eninger.

Joan Wilson gave her report on the national convention held at Seattle, Wash., and presented Mary Jones and Mary Jane Strunk with a Pennsylvania State pin for the members they had recruited last year.

It was announced that the recent bake sale had been a success. The next meeting will be a short business meeting at 7 p.m. to be followed by a merchandise party. The officers will meet at 7 p.m.

Copy-cat fashions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Call the kids copycats if you wish, but what goes on with adult fashions for fall and winter also goes for children's.

A look at the new styles for the pre-school and elementary school set shows more "neatening up" both for boys and girls. There's a look of more tailoring, return to the classics, and movement away from the sloppy look although it'll take a miracle worker to get the children out of jeans.

Cuffed trousers

What it boils down to is a great interest in the sportswear image, a big factor in adult styles, too. In pants, the cuffed trousers look like the leader. So does the layered look, say a shirt or T-neck topped with a sweater vest or shirt jacket.

Sweatered looks abound for both boys and girls, as they do for adults. And as part of that "less sloppy" trend, designers are putting little girls into smoking and pinafore dresses.

Whatever the styles, though, they must be easy care — into the washing machine and out without Mamma having to touch an iron to anything.

All these trends emerge from a survey of several children's wear manufacturers including the three big mail order houses — Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and J. C. Penney.

Pants go on and on for the small fry but this year, cuffed or not, they get away from the wide-legged "baggies." Instead, it's toward the straight and narrow silhouette.

Sweatered look

Part of the sweatered look teams copies of the baseball jacket (adults have copied too) done in sweater knits. They're teamed with skirts, pants, jumpers and dresses.

And speaking of classics, no self-respecting stylist would be without some jumpers in back-to-school clothes. One of the blessings for the little girl however is the look of the jumper without the separates problem of sweaters or blouses riding up. You'll see the one-piecers either in solids or solids paired with bright prints for the fake blouse.

Throughout, the talk is of coordinates. Sears' Winnie the Pooh collection, designed by the veteran in children's wear, Helen Lee, is totally coordinated in color so you

Krout-Lancaster nuptials

WIND GAP — Miss Patricia Lancaster and Michael Jon Krout were united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony on Saturday, Aug. 18, at the Hope United Church of Christ in Wind Gap.

The officiating clergymen were Rev. John Truitt, Rev. Barry Galley and Rev. Forrest Miller. Music was presented by Steve Wilson, organist and Robert Ealey, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William R. Lancaster of 128 Constitution Avenue, Wind Gap, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Krout of Locke Heights, R. D. 2, Bangor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory organza gown trimmed with Cluny lace and purple satin ribbon. It was designed with a high neckline and lantern sleeves. There were buttons on the front of the gown with a tucked bodice and skirt with laced-edged hemline and attached chapel length train. The bride completed her outfit with a picture hat in matching lace and blusher. She carried an ivory organza parasol trimmed with lavender and pink roses surrounded by baby's breath.

Mrs. Judy Galley of Easton was matron of honor! Bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Kern of Easton, Mrs. Barbara Reiner Jr. of Lansdale and Miss Brenda Dobes of Wind Gap. Cousin of the bride, Renee Rinehart of Bath was junior bridesmaid and Miss Sherri Lambert of Bangor was flower girl.

Mrs. Michael Krout

The attendants were dressed in lavender printed organza gowns with high ruffle necklines and bodices, short puffy sleeves, flounced hemlines and pink streamers at the fitted waists. Their headpieces were pink bows that matched the bows on the gowns. They carried pink organza parasols trimmed with pink carnations.

George Wilhelm Jr. of East Bangor was best man. Ushers included Karl Krout, brother of the bridegroom, of Saylorburg, Terry Wagner of Locke Height, Bangor, and Donald Lancaster, brother of the bride, of Gilbert. Junior usher was Scott Lancaster, brother of the bride, of Wind Gap.

Ring bearers were Frederick Lancaster III, cousin of the bride, of Avona Heights, Easton, and Mark Krout, nephew of the bridegroom, of Saylorburg.

A reception was held at the Eagles Home, Route 115, Easton, Pennsylvania. The couple left on a trip to Rehoboth Beach, Delaware. They will reside at North Delaware Drive, R. D. 1, Easton, Pa.

Mr. Krout graduated from Pen Argyl Area Senior High School and East Stroudsburg State College where she received a B.S. degree in Health Education, and is presently doing her graduate work at the same institution. She is employed as a health and physical education teacher in the Bethlehem Area School District.

Kr. Krout graduated from Bangor Area Senior High School and Williamsport Area Community College and is attending Northampton Area County Community College. He is employed by Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Ann Landers

Rubber freak

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in our late forties. He is a professional man, well-respected, affectionate, and I love him. Unfortunately, my sexual desires have decreased in recent years and his seem to have increased. I have tried to fake it but I am not very good at pretending. I am becoming concerned about his behavior, which I think is abnormal. My husband has gone in for far-out leather and rubber outfits in a big way. He has spent a small fortune on pants, leather shirts, boots, gloves and a motorcycle helmet although he doesn't own a motorcycle. Last week he bought a rubber storm suit, complete with boots that go clear up to his hips. He wore that outfit in the house all day Saturday.

This afternoon he put on that same get-up, handed me two lengths of rope and asked me to tie his legs together and his arms behind his back. I was flabbergasted. He said it would relieve his sexual tensions and he hoped I would cooperate. I told him the whole thing was too freaky for words and I refused to do it.

What does this bizarre behavior mean? Was I wrong not to cooperate? He is a fine man and all this leather and rubber stuff plus the clothesline has me completely bewildered. Can you explain it?

Conn. Concerned

Dear C. C.: I wouldn't even try, and I urge you to see someone who can. Ask your doctor to recommend a psychiatrist. Make an appointment to discuss your husband's behavior so you can help him. Normal he isn't.

Dear Ann Landers: Sometimes people write to air their grievances. This is why I'm writing. I address my complaint to welfare workers. My husband and I love children. We have a large, comfortable home and a lot of love to give. About 15 years ago we spent $13,000 remodeling so we could take in several foster children. Welfare has given us retarded youngsters as well as teenage prostitutes and dope addicts. Our home has been set on fire, money stolen, our cat was strangled and our lives threatened.

No one ever told us these children weren't normal. My husband and I are not psychiatrists. We are not competent to deal with children who hear voices, maim themselves and set fires. We realize these children need care, but is it fair to place them with lay people when the welfare worker knows they should be in an institution?

If this letter evokes some screams around the country, I say, fine, scream away. Sign me—

Let's Keep It Honest

Dear Let's: There must be another side to this story — one that only a welfare worker can tell. When I receive it, I'll print it. Thank you for writing.

PONYTAIL

Erma Bombeck

Garbage delight

Talk about the breaks.

No sooner did environmentalists start pushing the see-through garbage bags than the government decided to come out with Phase IV.

If you do not see the connection between the two, then maybe your garbage sitting on the curb for all the world to see has more class than mine.

There was a time when I was proud of my garbage. There were empty Sara Lee boxes, champagne corks, mushroom tins and sometimes just for garnish, I'd sprinkle a few empty cans of lobster bisque on top and leave the lid ajar.

The other day I drove by the Wagners' and their garbage bags were lousy with brand Xs. Where has pride gone?

During the past year, not only has the quality of garbage deteriorated, but the quantity.

At the dinner table the other night, one of my youngsters asked for thirds.

"Save something for the garbage," I warned.

"Why?" they asked innocently.

"Why, indeed!" I said. "Do you realize that we used to be a five-can garbage family and now we are down to two measly plastic bags?"

"The Traxlers have six!" said my son.

"I don't know how they do it on his salary," I pondered.

"And besides that, they have a dog!" said another child.

"You're kidding." "And a disposal," said my husband.

"They probably don't take vacations," I rationalized. "All I know is our garbage is so tacky it doesn't even attract stray dogs anymore."

"You're just depressed because you are tired and it has been a long day. Why don't you come in and relax and watch TV?"

"I'll be along in just a minute," I said.

Later he came out to the kitchen to check. "I think I've got it figured out. Friday, I'll have frozen fish and chips. Saturday, I'll go for the chicken, and Sunday, we'll have a cookout with spareribs, corn on the cob and watermelon. That should be filling."

"You planning the menus for next week?" he smiled. "Don't be ridiculous. I'm planning my garbage!"

THE END: (Q.) Going steady with Karen has got to be a drag. Going out is OK. We still have some fun. But going over to her house is a bore. I make up excuses not to go. It's not like it was when we started 10 months ago.

Karen has a bad inferiority complex and keeps saying she is no fun to be around. I tell her that isn't so, but I'm beginning to believe it is. What do you think? I'm 17 and she's 18.

No Thrill
Now in Texas

(A.) Karen openly puts herself down in the hope that you will reassure her. This is a trait of one type of unconfident person.

You have been kind to her. But you are her boy friend, not a psychiatrist or psychologist. If you do not leave her now you may start saying unkind things to her and hurt her.

Tell her goodbye. In doing so be as kind as you can. Talk about the good things you have seen and known together. But be definite. Say goodbye.

UNASKED: (Q.) Please tell me how to get a bookworm's mind off books and onto dating. Two months ago I met a very attractive young man at college. He is concerned with me, but he is much more concerned with his books.

I thought a relationship meant going out. I know his courses are difficult, but my loneliness is difficult too. Sometimes I could throw a book at him. Please tell me what to do.

No Phone Calls
in Pennsylvania

(A.) You seem to think you and this young man have a "relationship." Maybe he doesn't think so. Maybe he doesn't even think about it.

Maybe he thinks you are only a nice girl he met and with whom he is friendly.

Let him know you like him seriously. Call him up and ask him to have lunch with you. Talk to him about himself. Ask him questions about himself. If he is positive and gets your message, do not ask him for too large a share of his time.

If he is negative, get the message yourself. Your romance was just in your mind and you built it up out of proportion. That often happens, you know, to both males and females.

Congdon enters graduate school

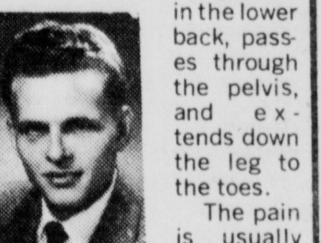

STROUDSBURG Gerald S. Congdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Congdon, 1001 Chipperfield Drive, Stroudsburg, has been accepted to graduate school at The Pennsylvania State University, where he will continue work on his Master's Degree in Psychology.

During the past year, Congdon was resident supervisor at the Skills, Inc. Halfway House for Juvenile Offenders located in Huntingdon, Pa. There, in conjunction with his work, he conducted research on childhood behavioral disorders.

SCIATICA

By Dr. Thomas F. Snyder

Sciatica is an increasingly common problem caused by an irritation to the largest nerve in the body, the sciatic nerve. This nerve originates in the lower back, passes through the pelvis, and extends down the leg to the toes. The pain is usually triggered by the effect of irritation upon the sciatic nerve, resulting from sudden strains of falling, lifting, pushing and reaching, which produces myosplastic distortions called subluxations. These subluxations may cause irritation leading to inflammation of the sciatic nerve.

This condition, if not attended to, may continue for years.

Sciatica may effect one or both legs, and the pain may be felt at any area along the pathway of the sciatic nerve, including the hip, thigh, calf and foot. The chiropractic approach to the alleviation of sciatica is through the removal of the irritation on the nerve fibers. Your chiropractor is trained in finding the myosplastic distortions and removing them. If you suffer from sciatica, see your chiropractor right away.

572 MAIN STREET, STROUDSBURG

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — When the new television season was launched last fall, one of the red-hot prospects was "Bridget Loves Bernie." And red-hot it stayed in the ratings, so when the show was canceled, questions were asked. The network said that it was high rated only because it was sandwiched between two hit shows and that actually there was a hammock effect with some viewers tuning out for the "Bridget" half hour. This was shot down when "Bridget" actually outrated one of the other shows. Well, for the inside story of how some people don't like messages of brotherhood, we went to David Birney, the "Bernie" of the show.

"The attitude of every actor who ever set his sights on Broadway," according to David, "has always been that doing motion pictures was selling out. As far as television was concerned, that was totally beneath contempt! Times have changed. Oh, how they've changed. Julie Harris is on the tube in, of all things, a situation comedy about pickles. Helen Hayes appears regularly in movies for television, and Hal Holbrook created one of the finest characters the tube has ever known.

"Understand please that I'm not saying everything on the medium is art, or even that too much of it is terribly worthwhile. But there is plenty being done that at least demands attention. There's another factor becoming more and more apparent - that it's almost impossible for an actor to build a career without the tube. It supplies a pipeline to the public and after all, without an audience there is no such thing as an actor. A painter can paint for himself, but an actor needs people.

"I myself had some small reputation on the stage, and was even beginning to feel that there was success at the end of the tunnel, when I was discovered by television. I did some guestings and a daytime serial, then I hit the jackpot. It was 'Bridget Loves Bernie,' and, knowing how important television would be to a career, I packed my sunglasses and bermuda shorts, and went happily to Hollywood.

"The original concept of 'Bridget Loves Bernie' was charming and witty. My character was interesting, and it was an hour long show, with sufficient actor's tasks involved to make it a constant challenge. It was everything to an actor anxious to believe. The show's basic thrust was that people of different backgrounds could live together. How timely. How necessary. The concept appealed to me, as did the cast - a marvelous bunch of professionals who truly cared about what they did and brought a great deal to their roles.

"The bliss didn't last long. I think our major problems began when the first reports of protests began. It was then that the producers decided to pull back from the original theme. The differences between families and their religions became less and less, and as the conflicts diminished, so did the quality of the series. We eventually became anachronistic, a throwback to the situation comedy of the late fifties. It was 'The Gale Storm Show,' 'I'm Dickens, He's Fenster' and 'Father of the Bride' again, except that in 1972 - 73, we were dealing with a more sophisticated audience.

"Surprisingly, we maintained our ratings, but something else happened, a small but ominous rumble far off in the distance. We didn't recognize it at the time, but had we listened closer we would have recognized the sound - it was impending danger. Strange. The initial reaction of the minorities represented was negative, not because of stereotypes, but because of the intermarriage aspect of the show. The reaction was minimal, compared with what came after we'd pulled back. When we became vanilla pudding instead of Irish stew and bagel dumplings, the pressures really began to mount.

"Too late, we realized what we'd done. In its early stages, and as it was planned, the show was closer to situation drama than situation comedy. The characters were charming - funny. They had dignity and were drawn truthfully. When we went for the yocks instead of sticking with the original theme, the characters lost dignity and the show became exploitive. If it hadn't affected us all so gravely, it would have been an interesting education in the vagaries of television. In an attempt to become less provocative, we provoked to the utmost, and there was a substantial increase in the flow of negative letters.

"The bloom was off the roses. With the negative mail added to a slight dip in ratings, plus bomb threats and the ever-increasing problem of what sort of storyline to follow in view of all the limitations the writers had laid on them - it became ever more difficult for Bridget to Love Bernie, and we were notified the network had dropped the show.

"We all parted tearful company, each member of the cast going his own way. Since Hollywood was in a strike - induced hiatus, I went back to the stage, and worked in Chicago, starring in a production of Shaw's 'You Never Can Tell.' Then, swallowing hard, I decided to try out my musical talents touring Ohio and Michigan for the Kenley's, playing Sky Masterson in 'Guys and Dolls.'

"Now, television again beckons. I've been offered a starring role in a Movie of the Week, will be doing a segment of 'Great Mysteries' - the new anthology presided over by the great Orson Welles - and surprise of all surprises, I've been told that Bridget may be loving Bernie as a mid-season replacement on another network after the first of the year.

"I hope so. With all we learned, maybe we can do the show this time around as it had originally been conceived. I'd look forward to that, because it turns out Bernie Loves Bridget, too - not to mention the rest of the Steinbergs and Fitzgeralds."

S-burg man arrested

STROUDSBURG — Henry Brogan, 20, of 31 N. Fourth St., Stroudsburg, was arrested by Pennsylvania State Police Thursday on charges of stealing a motorcycle.

Trooper John Kanavy of the Fern Ridge barracks was on routine patrol on Interstate 80 when he spotted Brogan's car at 6:40 p.m. Area police had been alerted to be on the lookout for the Brogan vehicle.

After summoning assistance from Trooper C.J. Borsch, Kanavy arrested Brogan.

The suspect was taken before District Magistrate Clara Pope of Mount Pocono. He was arraigned and remanded to the Monroe County Jail.

Obituaries

Robert A. Fritz

EAST STROUDSBURG — Robert A. Fritz, 49, of 1723 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, died Sunday in the General Hospital of Monroe County. He was the husband of Joyce E. (Berger) Fritz, at home.

Born in Tobyhanna, he was a son of Mrs. Margaret (Cramer) Fritz, Tobyhanna, and the late Edgar H. Fritz.

A lifetime resident of Monroe County, he was employed by Hughes Printing Co., East Stroudsburg, for the past 25 years. He was a 1942 graduate of East Stroudsburg High School.

A veteran of World War II, he served with the U.S. Army Air Corps in England. He was a member of the George N. Kemp Post 346, The American Legion, V.F.W. Post 2540 and the Cooties Pup Tent. He was also a member of the I.P.P. A.U. Local 350 and the United Methodist Church of East Stroudsburg.

In addition to his widow and mother, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Gloria Darby, Jacksonville, Fla., and three brothers, Terry and Donald B., both of Tobyhanna, and Neil, Lindenwood, N.J.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Lanterman Funeral Home, 27 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, with Rev. Harold C. Eaton officiating.

Viewing will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at the funeral home.

Burial will be in East Swiftwater Reformed Cemetery.

Warren Whittaker, Sr.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Warren Whittaker, Sr., 68, of Stroudsburg R. D. 3, died Saturday morning in the General Hospital of Monroe County. He was the husband of Lulu M. Whittaker, at home.

Born in Egypt Mills, he was the son of the late Romain and Jennie (Schooner) Whittaker. A retired mason, he had worked in Monroe County his lifetime.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Mary Lou Metzgar, Bartonsville, and Lois L., at home; two sons, Warren, Jr., Saylorsburg, and Daniel J., Egypt, Pa.; three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Mack, Sciota, Mrs. Myra Smith, Mt. Bethel, and Mrs. Minnie Beckler, East Stroudsburg; and two brothers, Rafferty and Charles, both of Bushkill.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the Richard J. Kiofach Funeral Home, 134 Broad St., Stroudsburg, with Rev. Norman R. Savage officiating.

Viewing will be after 7 p.m. today at the funeral home.

Burial will be in Sand Hill Cemetery, Bushkill.

Lunch prices to increase

STROUDSBURG — Maybe it's still the cheapest hot lunch around, but the well-balanced, dietetically sound and tasty trayful in four area school cafeterias is going to be a nickel more this year.

Pleasant Valley, Stroudsburg, Notre Dame and Pocono Central Catholic Schools report having to adjust prices upward to pace inflation, while Pocono Mountain and East Stroudsburg will hold the line.

Here's the breakdown: — Pleasant Valley lunches cost the most, going to 45 cents for elementary, 50 cents for secondary and 60 cents for all others.

— Pocono Central Catholic is hiking all lunches to 40 cents and a letter will be out soon to parents explaining the increase. The lunches include milk.

— Notre Dame will go to 40 cents for grade schoolers and 45 cents for secondary level.

— Stroudsburg will charge 40 cents for elementary, 45 cents for secondary and 55 cents for adults.

— East Stroudsburg is holding at 35 cents elementary, 40 cents secondary, 50 cents for adults. Pocono Mountain is also keeping the 35-cent base lunch scale.

Those schools increasing prices say the move is motivated by increasing costs and the necessity of maintaining quality in accordance with state standards.

As in the past, the new prices won't apply to students whose financial need qualifies them for lower prices.

Shopping plaza on way

Construction is underway for the new shopping plaza which will be located on Rte. 611 in Stroud Twp. The plaza will feature a Jamesway Discount department store plus three satellite stores.

Jamesway to open store

STROUDSBURG — A new shopping plaza containing a large discount store and three satellite stores on Rte. 611 in Stroud Township will open early next year.

Jamesway Discount Department Stores is presently constructing a 60,000 square foot store on the land. Jamesway is a national chain with 31 stores in the northeast.

The store will stock a full line of brand name items at discount prices, a spokesman for Jamesway said. Jamesway employees will be recruited from the area.

A tentative grand opening date is scheduled for the last two weeks in February, 1974.

The three other smaller stores will be attached to the Jamesway store in the same fashion as Pocono Plaza in East Stroudsburg is constructed.

One of the trio will be a drug store while the other two store spaces are not yet designated.

DER closes swim pool at motel

HARRISBURG — The Cannon Motel, Middle Smithfield Twp., has been ordered by the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) to cease operation of its public bathing place.

The order was issued by Lawrence A. Pawluch, regional water quality manager, of the DER's Kingston office. It was presented to Frank G. Cannon, owner of the motel, after he failed to secure a bathing place permit which is issued by the DER.

Cannon was ordered to cease operation of the swimming pool and to promptly drain it of all water until a bathing place permit is issued by the DER approving and authorizing operation of the pool.

Seven to be for credits

ESSC offers night courses

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College will be offering seven courses for credit and four non-credit offerings starting in September to area residents.

The courses are offered at night to enable interested members of the community to participate.

All courses, three credit offerings for the fee of $93 meet three hours once a week.

Dr. Richard H. Luce, dean of Summer Sessions and Continuing Education, said, "East Stroudsburg State College welcomes the opportunity to offer courses at a time when people from the community can take advantage of them."

"The college is making a special effort to provide courses which are of interest to people of the area, whether it be for enrichment, upgrading or merely to satisfy an interest."

Courses to be offered for credit as well as the time they meet include the following:

English, "Special Studies: Biblical Literature," 7 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday; Foreign language, "French Masterpieces in Translation II," 6 to 9 p.m. Monday;

Sociology, "Introduction to Anthropology," 7 to 8:15 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday; Speech, "Art and History of Film," 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Other courses to be offered include Elementary Education, "Children's Literature," 4 to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday and 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. Tuesday; and Special Education, "Education of the Mentally Retarded," 6 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

Those wishing to attend any of the sessions may do so by contacting the admissions office for an application.

Area people over 25 years of age may attend as a special non-matriculated students, so it is not necessary to complete special application materials for credit courses.

Registration for non-credit mini courses will be completed in class on the evening of the first meeting. Mini courses will meet once a week for two and a half hours, 7 to 9:30 p.m., for five successive weeks starting Oct. 1. The charge for a mini course is $15.

Mini courses being offered are Practical Sociology in Everyday Life, Monday; Mixed Chorus, Tuesday; "Black Literature," Wednesday; and "The Universality of King Lear," Thursday.

Further information or details concerning the mini-programs may be referred to Dr. Luce at the college.

S-burg schools will offer reduced price lunches

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Area School District has announced it will follow the free and reduced price lunch policy for school children unable to pay the full price.

Write to know

The people in The Pocono Record's circulation area have a "Write to Know" — and The Record will try to provide the answers in the "Write to Know" column. The column is designed to answer any questions or solve any problems — consumer, government or anything else. Send questions to "Write to Know," The Pocono Record, 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg, Pa. 18360. Questions must be in writing and signed in full. No telephone calls, please.

Q. On Dec. 22, 1972, I purchased a 1973 Ford Country Squires (worth $5800) from Stroud Ford in Stroudsburg. I've had trouble starting it in cold weather and now with warm weather, the air conditioner smokes, the motor whistles, backfires, grinds and constantly hesitates. The motor was turning on with no one in the car, but when I take it in for repairs, I get the same answer: Stroud Ford can't fix it. This means I'm stuck with a $5800 lemon. Can you suggest any stronger channels?

Kathleen A. Webber, Dingman's Ferry

A. We sure can. Since you are a resident of Pike County, but your business transaction is in Monroe County, we have referred your problem with Stroud Ford to the Consumer Protection Bureau office in Allentown, which covers the Monroe County area. The address is 133 N. Fifth St., Allentown, 18102. Write or phone them. They'll send you a complaint form, you fill it out and return it.

Q. I would like to know why the two lanes into the Fifth Street red light on the right side are not marked. The right lane is right turn only to Ann Street and Broad Street and the inside lane thru traffic only.

F.S., Stroudsburg

A. We contacted local Highway Department officials and they explained that with the current work schedule, the markings at the light will soon be completed. They have previous work commitments to handle first.

Q. Who do I write to or complain to for a check on prices? I feel I was overcharged recently for a prescription I bought at a local drug store.

Mrs. G.R.C., Pocono Pines

A. If you feel you were overcharged on a purchase of an item, the party to contact is the Bethlehem office of the Bureau of Consumer Protection at 821 E. Morton St. The office is headed by Chief Investigator Skip Idukas and investigates all complaints of overcharging; if you file a complaint, that is.

Q. Maybe this is an Ann Landers or Amy Vanderbilt question, but I recently mailed a birthday card and present to someone I thought was a friend of mine. The card and present were promptly returned. Isn't this the height of rudeness?

F.K., East Stroudsburg

A. Your "Write to Know" man is no Amy or Ann, or even Hugo, for that matter. Right, you should concern yourself with an opinion from social experts. We help you with consumer ills and related matters, but social questions we try to stay away from.

Q. Could you please tell me the entire address of the Best Foods Division of the Corn Products Company in New York City? The firm manufactures Argo Corn Starch.

R.K., Pocono Farms, Tobyhanna

A. The address of the Best Foods Division is 1 Railroad Ave., Ridgefield, N.J. That's the sales office. The industrial division of the metropolitan sales office is located at 10 East 56th St., Manhattan. Phone 212-688-7600.

Q. On June 6, I had a one qualifier number in the lottery drawing. Can you tell me where, besides a state liquor store, I can find out if this number is on any finalist drawing lists?

J.F., Pocono Heights

A. Yes, sir! The telephone operator at the capital building said the state operates a special office for lottery info. So, if you feel you might have a winner, you can contact the lottery office in Harrisburg and find out for sure. Good luck!

Q. My wife and I are both senior citizens, both 68 years old, live in Stroud Township and have not been employed or owned a business since 1966. We rent and own only a cemetery plot in Lehigh County. Our expenses are met partly by Social Security and partly by accumulated savings. Why are we not exempt from Stroud Township, county and school taxes?

E.C.S., Stroudsburg

A. Monroe County Chief Assessor Bill Fetherman explained you are not exempt from Stroud Township taxes, which amount to $10 per capita tax and $5 for township purposes. The school tax, which you are also not exempt from, is based on a 100 - mill occupation tax, with $100 on assessment and probably $60 for your wife. He said no one is exempt from these taxes, no matter what their status.

Q. Does anyone locally buy old jewelry, other than a local jeweler who advertises that he buys gold? And is there any way to determine what is a fair price? This local jeweler offered $5 for two, 14 - carat gold wedding rings and a ring with a diamond chip, which does not seem reasonable to me.

Mrs. M.B., East Stroudsburg

A. The jeweler you mentioned is the only one in the Stroudsburg area. A check of jewelers in the Scranton area proved fruitless but we found one in Allentown. The name of the jeweler is CKK Antiques, phone number 1-215-432-1422. They'll be happy to do business with you.

Q. Could you give me the address to a show on television, "The Girl in My Life?" I've tried to get it but they don't give it over the television.

C.E.B., Stroudsburg

A. Best bet is to write to American Broadcasting Corp. (ABC) in New York. You could try local ABC outlet at Avoca Airport (Channel 16), but the network office in New York could do more. The show is run daily on ABC.

Q. I have a Timex watch that needs repair. I would like to send it for repairs, but I don't know the address of the Timex office. Could you help me?

F.V., Dingman's Ferry

A. Go South, young man. We contacted a local jeweler and he gave us the address he sends Timex products to for repairs: U.S. Time Corp., Little Rock, Arkansas. Zip code 72203.

Marjilou Ackerman — Junior Miss

By STEVE DRACHLER
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG — Sixteen-year-old Marjilou Ackerman of Stroudsburg, will represent the Poconos at the Pennsylvania Junior Miss Pageant, scheduled for November in Hershey.

Miss Ackerman was named 1974 Pocono Mountains Junior Miss late Saturday night before a relaxed audience in East Stroudsburg Area High School's auditorium.

She was chosen as the top contestant of the 21 local high school seniors entered. They competed in fitness, talent and poise and appearance categories, in addition to being judged on the basis of personal interviews.

"I really didn't think I would win anything," said Miss Ackerman, who will be a senior at Stroudsburg High School in September. "My scholastic grades weren't high enough and I thought I had goofed during my interview with the judges."

"I was just flabbergasted when they called my name as the winner."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ackerman, of Stroudsburg R. D. 5, chose a modern ballet dance routine for the talent competition. Her rendition of "Indian Reservation" brought her the top prize in the talent division.

Sharon Lessig, of East Stroudsburg, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lessig, was named the first runner-up. She received the top prize in the physical fitness category.

Jaqueline Budicker, a senior at East Stroudsburg High School, was named second runner-up. The daughter of Mrs. Peter Budicker of East Stroudsburg also won the top prize in the poise and appearance category.

"Miss Congeniality" was Katheel Ratti, of Kunkletown, a senior at Pleasant Valley High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ratti.

Rosanne Tierney of Tobyhanna won the award for the highest scholastic average. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Tierney and is a senior at Pocono Central Catholic High School.

Antique automobile show scheduled for Stroudsburg

STROUDSBURG — As early as 1929 the American-made Stutz Speedster, now a very rare antique sports car, was competing for the top prize at Le Mans.

Although never being able to capture the checkered flag, the Stutz did place second in one race and has continued to be a popular attraction for most antique car fanciers down to the present day.

This rare Stutz Speedster will be just one of more than 200 antique automobiles expected to turn out for the second annual antique automobile show of the Pocono Region Antique Automobile Club of America.

Belonging to Burnie Hawk of Snyder'sville, the 1929 sports car is one of only a very few such restored models on the East Coast. It took first prize in its class at the show last year.

Set for Aug. 26 at the Stroudsburg High School athletic field, the open show will provide first, second, and third place trophies for more than 20 different classes of cars. Plaques will be awarded to the first 250 cars that register.

In addition, there will be a special award for all National Senior First Prize (the highest class award in the Antique Automobile Club of America) winners that have registered by Aug. 10.

According to Mary Ann Hawk, publicity chairman for the show, the cars will be arriving between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Judging will begin at noon and be completed by about 2 p.m. or 3 p.m., at which time the cars will begin leaving the field.

Fire destroys tree house

EAST STROUDSBURG — A group of three youths are unhappy today — their tree house located behind the Green Valley View Apts. was destroyed by a fire Saturday morning.

Acme Hose Co. Capt. Ken Miller said the nine by 12-foot structure was "a total loss." Forty men and four trucks answered the call at 11:40 a.m.

She suggested that the best time to view the cars was as they are coming into the show between 9 a.m. and noon.

Various classes of automobiles expected to be shown this year include such names as Scripps-Booth, Kaiser-Darin, DeSoto, I.H.C., Autowagon, Pierce Arrow and Studebaker.

Also, Moyer, Willys, Henry J, two-passenger Thunderbird, Jaguar, Hawk Lawn fire truck and Ford mail truck, LaSalle, Hudson, and Rolls Royce will be on hand.

In addition to the cars, a special competition will be held for various types on one-cylinder gasoline engines.

A flea market will be held on the field during the show and food and beverages will be provided throughout the day by the Stroudsburg High School Varsity "S."

An old nickelodeon and a steam powered merry-go-round organ will provide background music.

To help defray the cost of the trophies, all people 12 or older will have to pay a 50-cent admission fee.

For registration information, interested residents should contact Frank Buck, Box 44, Stroudsburg R.D. 3, Pa. 18360.

Questions about the show should be directed to Mrs. Hawk at Box 261, Stroudsburg R.D. 5 18360.

Ambulance corps may unite soon

STROUDSBURG — Local volunteer ambulance crews may be uniting soon. The organization will probably be called the Monroe County Volunteer Ambulance Association, according to Rick Shaffer, captain of the Central Pocono Ambulance Corps, Tamersville.

Representatives from all but one of the six ambulance corps in Monroe County attended a recent meeting on the proposal, along with two Pike County crews and units from Blairtown, N. J., and Easton.

Also at the meeting were Dr. David Boyer from the General Hospital of Monroe County and Lewis Greenleaf, an emergency medical technician instructor from Easton. Shaffer said a representative from the Monroe County Control Center was there too.

"A law is about to be passed in the state Senate that will change the methods of operation of many ambulance corps," Shaffer said.

"What we want to do is form a county association that will help all crews become acquainted with the law's provisions and to work at improving on ambulance crew's training and performance."

Open house

EAST STROUDSBURG — Rev. John Eaton, pastor of the East Stroudsburg United Methodist Church, will hold an open house at his home on 300 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday to allow friends to visit with his son John, and wife Nelda, who are making a brief visit.

28 persons suffer injuries in weekend auto mishaps

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. — Twenty-eight persons, including 12 children from a summer camp near Port Jervis, N.Y., were injured in area auto accidents over the weekend.

The youths, from Camp Champion in Glen Spey, N.Y., were injured Sunday afternoon when a truck in which they were riding overturned near Highland Lake, N.Y., state police at Ferndale, N.Y., reported.

A spokesman for St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, N.Y., said six of the children, all from New York City, were admitted. She listed one as in guarded condition with the others in fair.

She said two men, Higinio Suarez, 24, and Domingo Montoute, 19, both from New York City, were also in guarded condition with injuries suffered in the same accident.

State police at Milford said four persons were injured Sunday morning when a tractor-trailer overturned and struck their car on Rte. 209 near Dingmans Ferry.

Jackie Colquitt, 39, Philadelphia was in fair condition at St. Francis Hospital while his passengers, Susan Byrd, 39, Cynthia Byrd, 18, and Milton Goodson, 21, all from Philadelphia were treated and released.

Police said Spartaco

Marinelli, 53, Randolph, Mass., was driving south on Rte. 209 when he lost control slamming into the Colquitt car. Marinelli was not injured.

209 blocked

Both lanes of Rte. 209 were closed for nearly two hours while the rig and its cargo of furniture were removed from the roadway.

Traffic was backed up between Bushkill and Milford for the rest of the afternoon and part of the evening because of the overturned rig and three other minor accidents on Rte. 209.

In one of the accidents, Vicki Corvo, 23, Allentown was treated at St. Francis Hospital and released.

She was a passenger in a car standing in a line of autos near Dingmans Ferry that was struck from behind by a tractor-trailer operated by Frank R. Sabor, 30, Danville.

Debra Talone, 18, Philadelphia, remained in critical condition Sunday night at the Allentown General Hospital with injuries suffered in a two-vehicle accident Saturday morning.

State police at Stroudsburg said Charles Kerber, 26, Cornwell Heights, was turning onto River Road in Middle Smithfield Township from Rte. 209 when his jeep was struck by a car.

The car was operated by Glen Browell, 23, Philadelphia. Browell and Miss Talone, his passenger, were taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County by the Bushkill Ambulance.

Three members of an Avoca family were injured in a one-car mishap Saturday night on Rte. 348 near Hamlin in Wayne County.

Peter Hennemann, 28, his wife, Waltraud, 24, were both in fair condition at Community Medical Center in Scranton and their daughter, Stephanie, six, was treated and released.

State police at Dunmore said Hennemann lost control of his car which went down an embankment and hit a tree. The injured were removed by the Maplewood Ambulance and Hamlin Fire Department Ambulances.

Four persons were treated and released at the General Hospital of Monroe County Friday night following a two-vehicle accident on Rte. 209 near Marshalls Creek.

State police at Stroudsburg said Frank Frasca, 25, Somerville, N.J., was traveling north on Rte. 209 but didn't see a stop sign near the Rte. 209 Business intersection. He struck a car operated by Robert I. Fidler, 44, Haddon Heights.

Milford man goes to trial to face Va. kidnap charge

ROANOKE, Va. — A Milford man wanted by police for crimes in four states will be tried for kidnaping today in the U. S. District Court here.

James Ellsworth Jones, 39, 221 E. George St., is charged with the kidnaping-murder of a service station attendant in August County near Staunton, Va., May 25, 1972.

Jones was apprehended by Trooper Michael Chaplin of the state police at Milford Aug. 6, 1972.

Chaplin found Jones in a tree on Bennett Avenue in Milford after receiving an anonymous phone call. Jones fell 45 feet to the ground. He was treated for injuries at St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, N.Y.

He was later transferred to a Harrisonburg, Va. jail where he is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

Jones is only going to trial on the kidnaping charge at this time because it is a federal count. The case is being tried in Roanoke because his attorneys asked for a change of venue. Roanoke is about 105 miles from Harrisonburg.

A court official said U. S. Atty. Leigh B. Hanes, Jr. and Ronald D. Hodges will prosecute the case. The case is expected to last two or three days.

Jones will be tried for murder and armed robbery of the service attendant, Leland Davenport, 18, in West Virginia at a later date.

Davenport's body was found about 120 miles from the service station off Interstate 81 in Martinsburg, W. Va. He was shot twice in the back. The defendant is also wanted for armed robbery charges in Pennsylvania and New York.

State police arrest three for receiving stolen goods

MILFORD — Two juveniles and a Connecticut man were arrested Saturday morning by the state police at Milford for receiving stolen goods and criminal conspiracy following a high speed chase on Interstate 84.

Arrested were John D. Colomb, 20, Bridgeport, Conn., a 17-year-old youth also from Bridgeport, who has been AWOL from the U. S. Marine Corps since June, and a 16-year-old juvenile from Baltimore, Md.

The youths were arrested by Trooper Michael Chaplin on I-84 near Matamoras at 11 a.m. Saturday after chasing them at speeds better than 100 miles per hour.

Chaplin heard a police message that a stolen GMC truck with Alabama plates was heading east on Rte. 6 toward Milford.

The trooper spotted the vehicle and gave chase calling for assistance when the truck entered I-84 at Milford. Troopers John Fox and Joseph Kosierowski assisted Chaplin in the arrest.

Police said the truck was stolen Aug. 17 on Long Island, N.Y.

Colomb was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Donald Travis of Milford and lodged in the Pike County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail. He will have a hearing at 4 p.m. Aug. 28.

Police arrest tree cutters

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE — Two area men were charged with the theft of movable property — cutting down trees at the National Park Recreation Area Sunday.

Glenn Fisher, 46, Minisink Hills, and Michael Clark, 26, Shawnee-on-Delaware, were arrested by Trooper Donald Kresge of the state police at Stroudsburg for allegedly cutting down trees and putting them in a truck.

Police said the defendants allegedly cut down 14 trees near the Zion Church on Mosier's Knob Road in Smithfield Township, and placed four trees in 12-foot lengths in the truck.

Kresge apprehended the men at the scene on information received from park rangers Michael Quick and Carl Theune.

Fisher and Clark are lodged in the Monroe County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail each. A hearing will be held at 1 p.m. Aug. 28.

Managers' call

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg High School football managers are to report to the stadium at 5:30 p.m. today, coach Dick Mering said Sunday.

Andretti wins in Bettenhausen

By United Press International

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, driving a Ford-powered Viceroy, grabbed the lead on the 97th lap Sunday and held on despite a fuel shortage to win his second Tony Bettenhausen Memorial "big car" race at the Illinois State Fair's one-mile dirt oval.

Andretti, who led the 24-car field from the 30th lap through the 55th lap, roared in front of Al Unser on the 97th lap and was first at the end of the 100-lap race. Unser, defending champion, finished second.

"Somebody up there must like me," said a sweaty Andretti in victory lane. "She began running low on fuel and was sputtering on about the 78th lap. I had to squeeze the last drop of gas out of her."

Andretti was also helped by a yellow flag on the 86th lap when Joe Saldana lost his left wheel on the grandstand and slammed into the concrete wall on the first turn. Saldana was not hurt.

While track officials cleaned up the debris and pulled the crippled racer off the track, the pack bunched up behind leader Johnny Parsons who had been in front most of the race.

When the drivers were given the green flag on the 91st lap, Unser pulled his Viceroy Ford out front until Andretti overtook him on the 97th lap and held on for the victory.

Parsons, driving a Lodestar Ford, took the lead on the first lap and stayed there un-

STROUDSBURG — After a summer of mental and physical preparation, high school athletes start to "play for real" today during the first practices allowed by the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Assn.

All seven area high schools begin triple practice sessions this morning which will continue until classes open Sept. 5. The season opens Sept. 7 for most teams.

Between 85 and 90 students are expected to be present when Stroudsburg begins its sessions. Coach Fred Ross said practice will be from 8:30 to 10:45 a.m., 12:30 to 2 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.

Candidates will be allowed to go home between sessions this week, but after that they will remain at the school the entire day.

East Stroudsburg will be looking to improve on last year's 6-4 record, the best since the 1962 Cavaliers were 7-3. But coach Dick Mering admits his team will be "young."

About 60 varsity candidates will practice three times per day. Sessions will run from 9 to 10:30 a.m., noon to 1 p.m. and 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Steve Kun, head coach at Pleasant Valley, said he "hopes" for a turnout of about 40 players, including junior varsity. The Bears have had numbers problems in the past, but have posted their best seasons (5-5) the last two years.

Murcer, Michael combine to pace Yanks' 6-2 win

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—Bobby Murcer led off the second inning with his 19th homer of the year and Gene Michael added a two-run double in the same inning Sunday night to spark the New York Yankees to a 6-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Murcer's homer came off loser Sonny Siebert and went just inside the rightfield foul pole. One out later, Siebert walked Graig Nettles and gave up a single to Thurman Munson before Michael drilled a double down the rightfield line to score both runners.

The Yankees scored twice in the third on singles by Horace Clarke, Roy White, Murcer and Nettles and an RBI groundout by Ron Blomberg. They added another run in the fifth on Matty Alou's leadoff double, a bunt single by White and a run-producing groundout by Murcer.

Pat Dobson went the distance for the fourth time this year for the Yankees to pick up his seventh victory against four losses. He gave up eight hits, including a fourth-inning homer by Jim Spencer for the first Texas run.

Siebert lost his fourth straight game and is now 6-11.

Miss Korbut's performance steals thunder from U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI)—A three-gold medal "hat trick" by Olga Korbut, the Soviet gymnastics princess, eclipsed another triumph by the U.S. men's basketball team and the Russian's domination of track and field Sunday at the seventh World University Games.

With the U.S. cagers blowing out France 137-43 for their fourth straight 80-point-plus triumph, the relentless Russians, led by the diminutive Miss Korbut, grabbed off 15 more gold medals to boost their overall five-day total to 31.

The petite Miss Korbut, winner of three gold medals at the Munich Olympics, equaled that feat in one day by picking up firsts in the uneven bars, balance beam and the free exercises. She then added a bronze for good measure in the vault.

Flipping her controversial backward somersault as easily as a housewife tossing pancakes, Miss Korbut won the uneven bars by a decisive margin and the balance beam by a shade over teammate Lubov Burda.

Then prancing around the mat gaily in her red costume with pink ribbons tied in her blonde hair, Miss Korbut completed her three-gold sweep in the free exercise as the packed-house crowd applauded loudly.

Across town, the U.S. basketball team was having almost as much fun as Miss Korbut. Buoyed by 27 points by center Marvin Barnes of Providence, Rhode Island, the American men hit 12 straight baskets during a 12-minute first half stretch and finished up with six players in double figures.

"I know we scared some people with that first-half show," said head coach Ed Badger, obviously referring to the Soviet team, several of whose members were at court-side. "I have had three foreign trips with collegiate teams and never seen one of them produce a better 20 minutes of play."

In addition to Barnes, the balanced U.S. scoring included 18 by Maurice Lucas of Marquette, 16 apiece from North Carolina State's Tom Burleson and David Thompson and Virginia's Wally Walker and another 14 by Quinn Buckner of Indiana.

The Russians again topped the track and field competition with a pair of gold medals.

Thomas, who will go to Nebraska in the fall, set a Big 33 record by catching nine passes for 94 yards.

"Baker and Thomas are two great kids," said Big 33 Coach Frank Murphy, also an Upper Merion. "There's no question they're the best team around. They've proved that week after week."

Pennsylvania lost 102 yards in penalties, compared with Ohio's 15, but the Buckeyes never got their offense off the ground.

Quarterback Ben Flossie, the son of Ohio Coach Dan Flossie, completed only six out of 14 pass attempts for 41 yards.

In the first quarter, Pennsylvania marched 87 yards in 12 plays for Baker's first touchdown pass to Thomas. The kick by Carson Long of North Schuylkill missed its mark.

When Ohio got possession of the ball, a Flossie pass was intercepted by West York's Keith Zimmerman at the Pennsylvania 35. The Big 33 failed to move the ball, but Ohio's Wilbur Boggs fumbled the Pennsylvania kick and it was recovered by Upper Merion's Russ DeSimone at the Buckeye 18.

Baker again connected with Thomas for the second touchdown and State College's Andy Seftor ran the two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, Ohio's Jim Harrell ran for a touchdown after the Buckeyes picked up a Baker fumble at the Pennsylvania nine-yard line.

Practice sessions will run from 8 to 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Pocono Mountain candidates will be given physicals at 9 a.m. today when coach Bill Forte opens practice. Forte, whose team had a 1-9 record last year, expects about 40 candidates.

Sessions for the Cardinals will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with two breaks in the daily routine. Unlike in the past, Pocono Mountain will train at the school and not at a camp.

Joe Ortelli, whose Pius X team of Roseto posted the best record in the area (8-2) last year, expects from 45 to 47 candidates. Sessions for the Royals will run from 8 to 10:30 a.m., 1 to 2:30 p.m. and 5:15 to 7:30 p.m.

Dick Bowman, who takes over as head coach at Pen Argyl from veteran Elwood Petchel, expects around 75 candidates on his initial team. Bowman was an assistant to Petchel. Petchel will remain as an assistant.

The Green Knights, who had a 2-8 mark last year, will hold practice from 8 to 10 a.m., noon to 1 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. The morning and evening sessions will consist of heavy drills with a light workout in the afternoon.

Bill Ruggiero, another former Pen Argyl assistant, enters his second year at Bangor. The Slaters, who were 2-8 last season, will work out from 8 to 10 a.m., 10:30 a.m. to noon and 6 to 8 p.m.

"We'll be a young team this year," Ruggiero said. "So early in the going we'll have to play it by ear. Some of the kids are question marks so we're undecided as to where to play them. It'll take awhile to blend it into a team. We expect a lot of younger, newer players."

East Stroudsburg State College, which opens its season Sept. 22 at home against Montclair State, does not begin preseason workouts until Sunday.

Wadkins finishes with 69 to win USI golf tourney

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Young Lanny Wadkins fired a three-under par 69 Sunday to register his second tournament victory of the year by two strokes over three other players in the $200,000 USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

The $40,000 first prize gave Wadkins, 23, $188,914 for the year, a record for a second-year man on the Professional Golfers Association tour and moved him in fourth place ahead of Lee Trevino on the 1973 money list.

Rik Massengale, Tom Jenkins, and Lee Elder tied for second place.

Wadkins finished the 72-hole tournament at nine-under par with a 279. The others closed at 281.

Wadkins entered the final round three strokes behind third round leader Massengale, but charged into the lead with a birdie-eagle-birdie string on the 10th, 11th and 12th holes.

He led Massengale by only a single stroke heading into the final hole on the 7,212 yard course. But Massengale, shooting for a tie, with a 30-foot putt from the right fringe, overshot the cup and then blew a two-foot putt to drop into the second place tie.

Pre-tournament favorites Bruce Crampton and Lee Trevino finished well back in the field. Trevino, tied for fourth entering the last round, hit the trees and a sand trap to triple bogey the par four 450-yard second hole. He finished with a 76 while Crampton had a 74 and both men were two under par at 286 for the tourney.

Ben Cranshaw, making his pro debut after winning an unprecedented three straight NCAA national championships at the University of Texas, shot a two-over par 74 in the final round for a 289.

Miss Palmer cops crown at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Veteran Sandra Palmer fired a two-under par 71 Sunday to win the $30,000 St. Paul Ladies Open golf tournament by one stroke with a 15-under total of 209 for 54 holes.

A crowd of 13,500 saw the Ft. Worth, Texas, golfer's consistent play. She birdied three holes and had only one bogey in the 90-degree heat.

Miss Blacklock, who led after the second round with an eight-under-par 138, edged Jane Blacklock and Judy Rankin, who both shot three-under-par 70's Sunday for 210 totals in the three-day tourney.

The Texas veteran took the lead from Miss Blacklock on the 15th hole, and took home $4,500 for first prize. Misses Blacklock and Rankin each received $2,995 second place money.

Miss Blacklock and Miss Palmer were tied at 10 under until the 14th hole when Miss Blacklock bogeyed the par three hole and Miss Palmer shot par.

Roberta Albers, who had a 72 Sunday, and Gail Denenberg, who had a 71, tied for fourth at 213. Eighteen-year-old Laura Baugh, Sandra Spuzich and Carol Mann tied for sixth with totals of 216. Miss Baugh had a one-over-par 74 Sunday. Miss Spuzich had a 71 and Miss Mann had a 72.

Single, wild pitch gives Tigers victory

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Mickey Stanley singled with two outs in the 11th inning and raced home on a wild pitch Sunday night to give the Detroit Tigers a 4-3 victory over the California Angels.

Stanley, who homered in the third inning for the first Detroit run, went to third when Tony Taylor followed his hit with a single of his own, then scored the winning run on Aurelio Montegudo's wild pitch.

The victory ended a four-game losing streak. The Angels rallied for the tying run with two outs and none on in the bottom of the eighth when Frank Robinson drew a walk to knock out starter Mickey Lolich, and reliever John Hiller—who picked up the victory—gave up successive singles to Bob Oliver and Mike Epstein.

The Tigers, with Manager Billy Martin returning after missing two games due to illness, scored their first three runs on homers.

THE ABC'S OF DIAMONDS BEGINS WITH THE LETTER

NOCTURNE SET

Before you select your diamond ring, know the "4C's" of diamond quality and value:

Color. From shades of yellow to finest white.

Clarity. The measurement of imperfections.

Cut. Determines the degree of brilliance.

Carat Weight. The measure of a diamond's size.

Every ArtCarved diamond is carefully selected and graded for superior color, clarity and cut. The carat weight of the diamond is permanently engraved on the inside of each ArtCarved ring, providing lasting value for your lasting love.

POCONO REALTY COMPANY

IF YOU'RE CONSIDERING SELLING YOUR HOME, LOOK AROUND!
Would you make a change or two to increase its value?
First, examine the yard. Is the lawn freshly mowed? Do the shrubs need trimming? Do the trees need pruning? If you've been meaning to tear some out because they spoil the view, now is the time to do it. First impressions of a well-kept piece of property are to your advantage.
If you've gone in for exotic colors on the living room walls, consider the potential buyer. That violet or forest green may set off both you and your furniture. It may scare off another. Off-white is a good neutral shade for offused rooms.
Perhaps enclosing a little-used porch will provide a den or laundry room. It will increase your home's value and desirability.

Every dollar spent may mean two dollars in future value to someone else.
(1) Whether a buyer or a seller, you can have complete confidence in POCONO REALTY. We have the largest staff of experts in the Poconos and handle all types of real estate sales, financing, mortgage loans and appraisals. POCONO REALTY COMPANY

IF YOU'RE CONSIDERING SELLING YOUR HOME, LOOK AROUND!
Would you make a change or two to increase its value?
First, examine the yard. Is the lawn freshly mowed? Do the shrubs need trimming? Do the trees need pruning? If you've been meaning to tear some out because they spoil the view, now is the time to do it. First impressions of a well-kept piece of property are to your advantage.
If you've gone in for exotic colors on the living room walls, consider the potential buyer. That violet or forest green may set off both you and your furniture. It may scare off another. Off-white is a good neutral shade for offused rooms.
Perhaps enclosing a little-used porch will provide a den or laundry room. It will increase your home's value and desirability.

Every dollar spent may mean two dollars in future value to someone else.
